MONSIEU MADE TEMPORARY PREMIER

Forty-Eight Hour Cabinet Is Formed In France To Stay Bank Closing

PARIS, April 13.—A forty-eight-hour cabinet with Anatole De Monsie as premier in order to keep the Bank of France from carrying out its threat to close temporarily was predicted this afternoon. De Monsie was minister of finance under Premier Herriot, having succeeded M. Clementel.

The purpose of the forty-eight-hour cabinet would be to legalize the over-inflation of the Bank of France.

By FRANK E. MASON For International News Service.

PARIS, April 13.—The Bank of France threatens to suspend business and close its doors temporarily until the government legalizes the present two billion franc inflation of the currency, if a cabinet is not formed within the next forty-eight hours, according to noon editions of Paris financial newspapers today.

The ultimatum was presented in a letter addressed to Finance Minister De Monsie from Governor-General Robineau of the Bank of France, reproduced in the Paris Midi.

"In view of the situation, the board of directors of the Bank of France must decide whether to continue business with private citizens and the government or temporarily suspend," Robineau's letter read.

To Avoid Disaster "To avoid serious consequences—the paralyzing of the economic and social life of the country—my intention is to propose continuing business if a vote legalizing the situation is passed without delay."

De Monsie promised Robineau regarding a new cabinet, spent the morning attempting to solve the Bank of France situation, according to Midi. He consulted Robineau and De Monsie and heard the latter's suggestion that Briand make a patriotic sacrifice by forming a 24-hour ministry to get the Bank of France's condition in regular form before Wednesday night.

Briand Has Hopes Briand's assertion that no decision had been made in the cabinet crisis was made as the veteran former premier was leaving Elysee palace after a conference with the president.

"I hope to give the president a definite answer tonight between 6 and 7 o'clock," he told the press, "although I probably will await the outcome of tomorrow's social conference before giving an absolutely final answer. I should know tonight from their leaders how the socialists probably will decide."

Memory Back After Lapse Of 29 Years

LOS ANGELES, April 13.—Abner C. Bartlette, 67, took up the threads of life today following where he dropped them twenty-nine years ago, when he suffered an amnesia attack following the death of his wife.

Bartlette was on his way to New York city, his former home, to claim a fortune left by a relative whose attorneys located him here after he had recovered his health and been discharged from an institution.

Crushed by the subsequent death of his two sons, Bartlette was discovered here after a six months' search by a New York detective, who succeeded in restoring Bartlette's complete memory by unfolding to him the story of his past life as the two spent an entire day in a California fig grove.

Yesterday Bartlette's third son met him here and took him to New York where a fortune awaits him.

WHITE HOUSE LOT OPEN TO KIDDIES

Annual Easter Monday Egg Rolling Contest Draws Crowd Of Tots

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The spacious White House grounds were thrown open this morning to that most colorful of all local events, the annual Easter Monday egg rolling, drawing thousands of children, each lugging a tiny basket filled with multi-colored eggs.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the children began to troop into the several gates, tots barely able to walk, up to boys and girls of 10—the arbitrary age limit—accompanied by parents and nurses carrying the basket lunches to spread out under the trees at a later hour.

Small boys reaped a harvest by inducing inquisitive tourists into the grounds, the rule being that no adult may pass the gates without a child. Children from the poorer sections of the city mingled freely with sons and daughters of diplomats, cabinet officers and members of Congress. Black and white played about indiscriminately in the absence of any color line.

Suitor Is Sought In Attempt To Wreck Flat

SACRAMENTO, April 13.—Police probing an explosion which yesterday wrecked the rear part of a street had made no arrests at an early hour today, but stated that they were searching for a rejected suitor of Miss Susie Rielli, Italian girl, who lived in the house. The investigation disclosed that at least three sticks of dynamite were used in the attempt to wreck the building. The person who set off the charge used a twenty-foot fuse to permit his escape before the explosion.

EAST WAITING BIG LEAGUE OPENING

National, American Clubs To Lift Lid Tomorrow On 1925 Season

NEW YORK, April 13.—Athletic America today awaited with ill-contained patience the official opening of the 1925 baseball season tomorrow, when umpires may be assassinated with vocal violence and impunity and convenient grandmothers may die by the thousands. It promises to be the most successful opening in all the history of major league baseball. Nearly a quarter of a million fans will charge the turnstiles throughout both circuits, weather permitting.

The local forecast is for fair and cooler tomorrow and predictions are being made that the Washington Senators and New York Yankees, respective champions and runners up last year, will play to 65,000 at the Yankee stadium.

Other Attractions will be staged at Chicago between the Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates, contenders in the National league. A third will bring together the Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers at Navin field and fourth, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cincinnati Reds at Cincinnati.

The New York Giants will open away from home. They are scheduled to leave tonight for Boston to collaborate with the Braves in the official Hub inaugural. The Brooklyn Dodgers, runners up to the Giants in 1924, will draw the Phillies as their opponents at Ebbetts field while the Athletics and the Boston Red Sox will edify the customers at Shibe park, Philadelphia.

This attraction should be good for a 25,000 crowd. So should the meeting between the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Browns at St. Louis.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IN SOCIETY HOME

Husband And Wife Found Dead In Apartment; Note Leaves Clue

CLEVELAND, April 13.—Coroner A. P. Hammond today was expected to formally declare the double tragedy which claimed the lives of H. B. P. Wrenn, 50, assistant electrical engineer for the Union Terminals Co., and his wife, 51, as a case of murder and suicide.

The bodies were discovered when police broke down the door of the fashionable apartment in which they lived here after the custodian had told them a light had been left burning in the dining room for two nights and two days.

According to police theory, Mrs. Wrenn, inspired by a sudden fit of jealousy, shot her husband. She then wrote a note which read: "Now he will frame me up no more or blast no more lives. I did this for my country's sake."

RADIO PROBE STARTED BY UNCLE SAM

Users' Continued Expansion Of Wireless Channels Prompts Move

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH For International News Service. WASHINGTON, April 13.—Elimination of static, fading and other atmospheric disturbances which interferes with radio reception, is the objective of an investigation launched by the government scientists of the bureau of standards today.

The first step of the bureau, aided by radio engineers in all parts of the country, will be determination of physical laws governing the flight of the radio wave.

Out of the studies is expected to come a scientific formula for transmission which may revolutionize broadcasting and vastly improve its value to the 20,000,000 radio patrons of the United States.

Move Necessary "The continued expansion of radio and the unexpected phenomena encountered in the very high frequencies or low wave lengths now so extensively employed make important the determination of national laws governing radio transmission," said Dr. H. Dillinger, chief of the radio laboratory.

"Full knowledge of these phenomena is necessary before radio can duly grapple with the limitations at present imposed on it by atmospheric disturbance, interfering and fading.

"To this end a number of universities and other laboratories are engaged in a measurement program under direction of the bureau. The work included measurement of field intensity, fading, direction, variation and atmospheric disturbances."

Following a study of the effect of the solar eclipse last January, a series of observations of the marked changes of radio transmission occurring at sunset has been launched at Schenectady, N. Y. The results have not been made public.

Doctor Dillinger said scientists are hopeful of eliminating static, although he does not anticipate any sudden cure for this evil, which is absent only in very cold weather. The cure, he explained, will be found in the improvement of broadcasting methods, receiving sets and a better knowledge of the physical laws governing development of the phenomena.

Next Friday Fixed As Last Day Either House May Push Measures

SACRAMENTO, April 13.—Senator Arthur H. Breed's bill increasing the gasoline tax one cent has been made a special order of business in the Senate tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock. Preparing for the customary eleven-hour rush to jam through legislation, Speaker Frank Merriam of the Assembly and Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young, president of the Senate, agreed at an early morning conference today that Friday of this week will be the final day in which either house of the Legislature can consider its own bills.

More than 1500 of the 2000 bills introduced are yet to be acted upon and the date of adjournment has been definitely set for April 24.

Action On Gas Bill

Under the Merriam-Young agreement, the Senate must definitely dispose of the Breed 3-cent gasoline tax bill within the next five days. Debate on the highway financing measure is scheduled to start in the upper house tomorrow.

Each house also has two legislative reapportionment bills to pass on this week.

Night sessions are expected beginning with the middle of this week to make possible the disposal of the mass of proposed legislation.

BEATS VICTIMS WITH CLUB, USES SHOTGUN AS THEY SEEK ESCAPE

Henry Greenhalgh, Carpenter, Age 54, In Rage at Being Barred From Home by Court Order, Commits Crimes

When Henry Greenhalgh, 54, carpenter, received notice of a court order today, barring him from the home of his wife, Mrs. Josephine Greenhalgh, 3281 Fletcher drive, in the Atwater district, from whom he had been separated, the man flew into a rage, went to his wife's home with a shotgun, clubbed Mrs. Greenhalgh and a friend, and when the women tried to escape, shot them both. Mrs. Greenhalgh fell dead in the yard of her home, Miss Elizabeth Brown, the friend, is in the receiving hospital in Los Angeles in a precarious condition and will die. After the enraged man had shot both the women, he turned the gun on himself, committing suicide.

Lincoln Heights police, who rushed to the scene of the triple tragedy, found Mrs. Greenhalgh prostrate in the yard of her home, lying in a pool of blood. She was shot through the head and had part of her abdomen torn away. She died at the receiving hospital a few minutes later.

Police surgeons said Miss Brown, aged 35 years, and address given as 3121 1/2 South Main street, Los Angeles, will not live. She is badly riddled with shot, having been struck at close range by Greenhalgh before she was able to escape from the house. Greenhalgh was found dead on the floor of the residence by the police. He had used the shotgun on himself.

According to neighbors, Greenhalgh and his wife were estranged. Court records show that three weeks ago Mrs. Greenhalgh filed suit for divorce, charging cruelty and abuse. In her complaint against Greenhalgh she stated that they had been separated since March. She said her husband molested her and refused to stay away from her home on Fletcher drive.

Another Version

Deputies from the sheriff's office who are investigating the triple tragedy this afternoon offered a new version of the shooting. They say that Miss Brown was not shot, but was clubbed by Greenhalgh.

Evidence, the deputies say, show that three shots were fired from the shotgun. They claim that Greenhalgh was in possession of the home, that his wife and Miss Brown appeared with the vacating order, that he admitted them and agreed to their taking possession. Then, the officers believe, Greenhalgh became enraged, secured a club and attacked Miss Brown, believing her partly responsible for his trouble. His wife, they say, attempted to interfere and he seized his shotgun and fired at her as she was running from the room. He missed, but killed her with the second shot. The third shot was used on himself.

Woman Badly Beaten This theory is advanced because a more detailed examination of Miss Brown's body this afternoon fails to show gunshot wounds, although three shots were fired. There were no witnesses to the tragedy.

Miss Brown was terribly beaten. Her skull is crushed in and her face and body a mass of bruises. During the beating she was thrown on a bed and while lying there was further beaten, the officers deduce from the condition of the room where she was found.

Greenhalgh, records show, filed an answer to his wife's suit, declaring that he had done considerable carpenter work at the house and set forth that he only wanted use of these improvements.

Warned from Home

This morning a court representative served notice on Greenhalgh that he was restrained from entering the Fletcher drive premises. In a rage, neighbors said, Greenhalgh came to his wife's home, entering the front door with a shotgun in his hand. He also carried a large club, they said, which he used to beat Mrs. Greenhalgh and Miss Brown when he cornered them in one of the rooms of the house.

When the women screamed and made attempts to escape, Greenhalgh got his shotgun and first shot Miss Brown. She fell to the floor while the wife of the crazed man fled through a rear door to seek refuge in the home of a neighbor. Greenhalgh followed

TRAXLER Praised ON HEALTH STAND

Local Physician, Candidate
For Council, Boosted
For Election

The Glendale Evening News was today requested to publish the following self-explanatory communication:

"Dr. Paul S. Traxler,
Glendale, Calif.

"Dear Dr. Traxler:—It has been very gratifying to me to see your name among the list of candidates for City Council. It has been very interesting to notice that while other candidates are talking about how much money they will save for the 'dear, dear people' you are the only one who has come out with a clean-cut, clearly defined program for public playgrounds etc. How sadly in need Glendale is of at least one man on the council who has the interests of public health and safety at heart is shown by the past record of children who have been killed or injured in the streets of Glendale.

"Every motorist is constantly annoyed by children playing in the streets when they should be in a public playground. It is indeed significant that while the subject of money in some form seems to be uppermost in the mind of some candidates, it has been left to a man in the medical profession to announce a platform of public welfare such as you mention.

Comparison Made
"The only explanation I see is that a man whose past training has been along lines of money getting would naturally continue to think along those lines, while a man who has had years of training and experience along the lines of promoting health and relieving suffering would naturally continue to think along those lines when seeking public office.

"It is painfully evident that Glendale is in extreme need of some man who will promote your program in the council, and I should think that every Glendale voter who is interested in safety for the public and especially the children would make every effort to give you the opportunity to serve in a capacity of such vital importance.

"I regret exceedingly that even though you are a member of the Glendale Christian church, the Ministers' association have not been fit to include your name as being equally as desirable as certain others whom they have endorsed.

Beware Of Slates!

Voters at Tuesday's election should beware of slated tickets made up of candidates who may have given pre-election promises or agreements as to appointments of heads of municipal departments and to the giving of patronage or "favors" to concerns that are working for the success of the slate.

When five candidates out of twenty-one pool themselves, or are pooled, there is an underlying cause for such an act—and such a cause would not meet with the commendation of the voters, should they become aware of the subtleness of the designers of the pool. Therefore, it would seem to be wisdom on the part of voters NOT to vote the offered "straight" ticket.

The voter's choice of five candidates should be made from the list of twenty-one names appearing below, considering the merits of each individual candidate as separate from any slated ticket.

The Glendale Evening News suggests that the VOTERS DO THEIR OWN THINKING! Voters should RESENT attempts on the part of others to vote for them by presenting PREPARED tickets. Voters can REBUKE makers of slates by exercising their right of freedom to mark their ballots as their OWN intelligence directs them.

Voters have before them good material for five councilmen. A slate should be looked upon with suspicion, for somebody, somewhere, somehow expects to benefit for boosting a slate. VOTERS SHOULD DO THEIR OWN THINKING and from out of the twenty-one candidates select five to vote for—that's the intelligent way, that's the American way, that's the way all GOOD citizens will choose. Here are the names of the candidates. Make up your OWN list.

Quiet Wedding

The wedding of Miss Zelma Beals of 5561 Romaine street, Hollywood, and L. J. Alexander of 202 North Central avenue, Glendale, was solemnized Saturday afternoon, April 11, 1925 at 2 o'clock at the home of Rev. Ernest E. Ford, 326 Fairview avenue. Mr. Ford, who is pastor of First Baptist church, officiated. Only immediate relatives and friends were present.

The bride wore a white georgette dress and white silk coat trimmed with white fur. Her hat was a white transparent picture hat of silk braid. She carried a shower bouquet of roses, lilies of the valley and sweetpeas. Mrs. M. J. Gorman of Hollywood, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Mr. Gorman served as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beals in Hollywood, for members of the bridal party. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander left for a motor trip to San Diego, where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return to Glendale they will reside in a new five room furnished home at 525 West Salem street, the house being a wedding gift from Mr. Alexander's parents. They will be at home to friends after April 19. Mr. Alexander came to Glendale four years ago from Roswell, N. M. He is employed in the accounting department at the city hall and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Alexander of 202 North Central avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond P. Herms, who were married Saturday, were complimented last night at a reception given at the home of Mr. Herms' brother-in-law and Mrs. D. G. Horlock, 5150 Lockhaven avenue, Eagle Rock. Mrs. Herms was Miss Laura Evelyn Anderson before her marriage. The dinner table was artistically decorated with a large wedding cake trimmed with roses and a miniature bridal couple. Unique placecards were used. Dancing was enjoyed later with music furnished by E. Herms. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Raymond P. Herms, G. F. Herms, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Anderson and daughter Marion, of Glendale; Mr. and Mrs. E. Herms and Wilfred Herms of Huntington Park; Mrs. C. G. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Horlock and daughters, Mildred and Doris, and son Harry.

Bowman of Los Angeles; and Herman Pearson of San Francisco. Five years ago, Mrs. Neill, Mrs. Farnsworth, Misses Ferguson and Kretzing made a trip to Europe together.

The Last Call Before the Battle WHO AND WHAT IS BOOTH

He is a 100% Red Blooded American Citizen, a Broad-Minded, God-Fearing Churchman. A good Mason, Elk, Oddfellow and Knight of Pythias. Owner of considerable property and successful in business. One who is opposed to all forms of blue laws. A nupholder of the rights of all American citizens, regarding Sunday or Sabbath laws, for freedom of action, clean sport or pleasure, as the people desire.

Frank Booth was born in London, England, January 4, 1864, 61 years ago. Oxford University education, a veteran of the South African Boer War under Lord Roberts, a life abstainer from liquor and tobacco, a naturalized American citizen by adoption over 15 years, swearing allegiance to the Stars and Stripes, a resident of Glendale for nearly 20 years, a successful business man, a booster for progress on economical lines, opposed to all forms of graft and bribery. In favor of cheaper car fares and all public utilities, comfort stations, adequate schools for educational purposes. Opposed to all wasteful expenditure of the taxpayers' money, with a back-to-normal, pre-war condition. "Now or never" is the time for you to assert your authority. If you are satisfied with our present administration, then return that; "If not," then you have some good material, out of the other 17 candidates, to choose from. Don't be influenced by any certain ticket endorsed by a few interested parties, for their own gain, but watch your step. Better be safe than sorry. With this admonition, and assurance on my part, vote for 5 men good and true, for a clean city kept clean.

Yours truly,
FRANK BOOTH,
One of the Light Brigade for City Councilman April 14. 111 So Kenwood St.

Remember what the blue law did to Pomona?—nearly ruined it from a business standpoint, until the people woke up and repealed the act. Warning: Watch your ticket. You can take a horse to water, but you can't make him drink. All of Booth's election campaigning was written up and paid for by Booth himself, playing a lone hand and not financed by any slush fund committee. Frank Booth is not a member of the Hooded Ku Klux Klan order, although he has been approached to join them within the last two or three years. Booth is ready at any time to uphold the constitution, for the enforcement of law and order. Booth is also opposed to any form of bootlegging or illicit liquor traffic and will support the government laws in stamping it out. Booth would like to see a law enacted stopping the use of imitation ballots, thus misleading the ignorant and illiterate voter.

Co-operation
Back in the Days of 1776

"United we stand, divided we fall" was the way they expressed it in those troublous times. And it brought about the birth of this nation of ours.

Co-operation is the watchword of all progress today.

In caring for the human body, relieving it of its ills and ailments, correcting its abuses, at least three professions function, the Medical profession, the Dental profession and the Druggist.

The first two of these—the Medical and the Dental professions—study to know the nature of diseases and how to treat them. The last of these, the Druggist, studies to know the nature of medicines, their qualities and proper preparation.

In Glendale there is a wonderful spirit of co-operation, constructive team work between these three great professions. We believe that Glendale is fortunate in the type of professional men who have chosen to locate here. It is not necessary to leave town to obtain the best of medical service.

SUNDAY FOR L. C. BRAND

More Than 1500 At Funeral Services; Held On His Estate, 'Miradero'

With the wind gently sighing through the palms that line the roadway up to "Miradero," Leslie C. Brand, capitalist and long-time resident of Glendale, yesterday was laid to his last sleep in the family burying ground within the estate he loved so well.

And paying homage to his memory were more than 1500 former friends and fellow-townsmen. Numbered among those who stood reverently bare-headed as Rev. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, told of the work of the "father of Glendale," were William Gibbs McAdoo and numbers of other prominent residents of the Southland.

The funeral services were public. Held in the big reception room of "Miradero," which was banked with beautiful flowers, with roses predominating, the space was too small for those who wished to do honor to his memory. The crowd overflowed out onto the wide veranda, down the broad steps and even back over the green lawns and into the roadway. Automobiles lined all the streets in the vicinity for blocks.

Quartet Sings
Rev. Edmonds' address was short. He declared that to find the best measure of a man one need only determine what his home life has been; what he has made of his home. Wealth and influence, he said, do not enter into the man's true worth.

Favorite songs of Mr. Brand were sung by the Harmony quartet of the Glendale Presbyterian church. Members of the quartet are Edward Hamm, Henry S. Foth, John J. Richert and Herbert C. Richert. Men who served with Mr. Brand at the Title Guaranty & Trust Co., Los Angeles, of which he was president were pallbearers. They were A. R. Killgore, J. E. Rhind, Albert Schuck, George A. Reimers, F. S. Balthis, J. F. Keogh, H. R. Kleinbach and E. Gray Vaughn.

Interment Private
Complying with his wish, there were no honorary pallbearers. In the family burying ground his body was interred by the side of his father and mother and other relatives. This service was private. Funeral directors were Kiefer & Eyerick.

Occupying the central position on the casket was a great magnolia wreath, with roses and lilies of the valley, a remembrance from all of the people of Glendale. It was given in the name of the people of the city by the City Council and City Manager V. B. Stone.

Mr. Brand had resided in Glendale for more than twenty years. He came to California in 1886 from Missouri. His death followed many months of illness.

College Alumni Thanks
Evening News' Policy

"Editor The Evening News:—We have been following with a great deal of interest the constructive manner in which you have played up California items. I make reference in particular to your issue of March 25 in which you have a column headed, "Modern College Student Upheld."

"While the general tone of the article itself was not all we feel the statement merits, still your heading is so far different from the heading that appeared in the Denver Post on that same day, that I am writing you this letter to tell you that your attitude is appreciated."

"There are, of course, a great many things that can be criticized in the forward progress of a great institution, but fundamentally the attitude of the student in his endeavor to take advantage of the fine things offered him by the state of California, is of a high order, and he needs encouragement."

"We appreciate what The Evening News is doing to get this idea over."

A selection was rendered by the Young People's quartet, composed of Misses Lina Lesan and Ollie Crumpler, Paul Beck and Vernon Wilcox. W. C. Blake sang a solo, "My Redeemer Liveth."

Rev. Reese Robbins of Pasadena preached the sermon, taking as his subject "The Resurrection of Christ." Mrs. Smirl was the speaker at the Young People's society meeting held last night and Rev. 9,000 PEOPLE AT SUNRISE SERVICES

Glendale Greeting On Easter
Morning At Forest Lawn
Impressive Sight

Nine thousand persons witnessed Glendale's Easter sunrise services at the foot of the Tower of Legends, Mount Forest Lawn, yesterday. One of the most impressive ceremonies of its kind in the history of Southern California was held in Glendale, coming to a climax when Frederick Warde, world-known Shakespearean actor, turned his head and eyes to the east and addressed the sun during his recitation of Van Dyke's "God of the Open Air."

As the trembling arms of the great actor stretched forth, the sun for the first time during the morning came from behind a cloud and shone down in full splendor on the great throng that crowded the hill-top.

Mr. Warde was visibly touched.

Rev. McComas Says Church

A decided departure from the customary Easter discourse, was that delivered last night by Rev. J. W. McComas at the Seventh-day Adventist church on Merton avenue, Eagle Rock. An audience which filled the church assembled to hear Rev. McComas fulfill his promise that he would tell the truth about Easter and its observance; and the speaker gave them no reason to think that he was afraid to make a plain statement of his belief.

Rev. McComas declared that the religious teaching and practice of the present day show that the old conflict between truth and tradition is still in progress; and that as Christ was condemned and crucified by the religious leaders

Appeal Made by Larry Wood, President
Of Realty Board In Neighboring Town at Big Banquet Here

Talking before more than 100 Glendale realtors at their annual banquet Saturday night, Larry H. Wood, president of the Burbank Realty board, stunned his hearers when he openly advocated annexation of Burbank to Glendale before the former city is "scooped up" by Los Angeles.

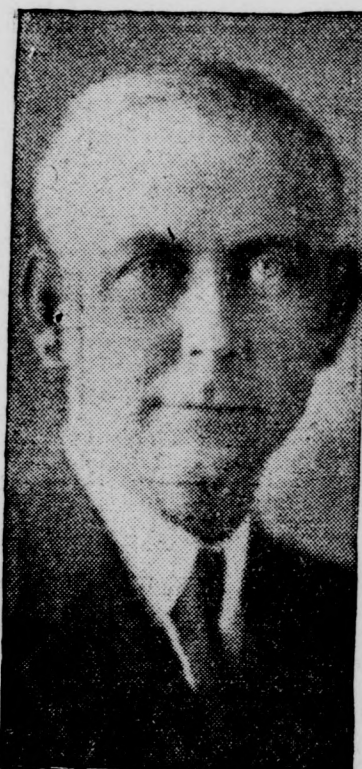

"What has been the matter—has Glendale been asleep? Here is a perfectly good city lying within its reach and it hasn't gone after it. Right now Burbank is preparing to vote on annexation to Los Angeles. Unless Glendale wants to be surrounded by Los Angeles city she had better get busy in Burbank," Wood declared in opening his talk.

Later he virtually confirmed reports from Los Angeles that the University of Southern California is seriously considering the Burbank university site as its future location and declared that negotiations will be to a point within a few days where a definite announcement can be made. Referring to the record made by the real estate extension class of Glendale, now studying under the direction of the University of Southern California, Mr. Wood said that soon the realtors would have to come to Burbank for their instructions. This was taken to be a confirmation of reports that the Los Angeles institution was seriously considering acquisition of the Burbank site.

When questioned after the dinner, both Wood and Ben Marks, head of the Benmar Hills corporation, owners of the Burbank site, refused to go further into the university question. "It is all right for Dr. Von

---Bill Board Interests are using their influence to defeat me, because I fought against marring the beauty of Glendale streets.

---Ornamental Street Light Standard Companies are fighting my re-election because I have been instrumental in securing a standardized light at less cost.

---I have made other enemies because I was the main factor in saving the city 10% or over $800 a year on city printing, and by having kept other parties from furthering their personal interests through the Council.

---I have supported every ordinance affecting the morality of the city, and backed the Chief of Police in his efforts in enforcing the laws of the city.

POSTAL WORKERS DIGNIFIED

The postoffice employees of the United States asked for and recently received a deserved increase in pay. They waited a long time for it, but then, as they should know, government business is always hampered by red tape, especially any measure that must be passed upon by Congress.

But what is notable in this instance is the attitude that was assumed by the government employees and the methods they used to get their rights. The clerks and carriers stuck to their posts and did their duty with never the flicker of an eyelash when the hoped-for raise was long denied, and even when it seemed indefinitely shelved by the president's veto.

In decided contrast are the methods of postal employees in other countries. In Canada business was paralyzed for a month by a strike of postal workers who were demanding an increase in pay. The raise was never granted and many of the men lost their positions.

British postal workers are now threatening to strike if they are not granted an increase in pay. And this in the face of the fact that British labor is in a bad way, unemployment is widespread and postoffice employees are better paid than men in other industries. The postmaster general replies to their demand by saying, "To increase your pay would cost the people of Great Britain $45,000,000 more a year, and you are now paid more than men in other industries and much more than you received prior to the war."

American postoffice employees could have tied up business in this country, for they had a real grievance. It is to their credit that they acted like intelligent, patriotic men and women. They fought their fight by educating public opinion to their side and not by tearing down what has been built up into the finest service in the world. They knew they were not getting fair play, but they took the dignified way to get it. The public should not forget this and should show appreciation whenever possible to the loyal men and women of the postal service.

TRAINING FOR PARENTS

The University of Iowa is inaugurating a three-weeks' summer training school for parents. This is distinctly a new venture in the educational world and one that will seem, to the modern boys and girls who are so assiduously engaged in bringing up their parents, totally uncalled for. There is no occupation under the sun more important than the rearing of children, and there is no situation that is more often approached without a proper realization of responsibility than parenthood. Children properly reared usually turn out to be good citizens. Boys and girls allowed to grow up without ideals or restraint are too often charges upon society. Any help that may be given parents to direct their little ones in the right paths is worth while, but it is to be feared that those who need such help the most will be unable or unwilling to avail themselves of it. Many parents who are manifestly unfitted to bring up children are blissfully oblivious of the fact, while others take their responsibilities too lightly.

The handicaps of poverty, physical disability and lack of education can be overcome. Every day we read in history or see with our own eyes evidences of this that make us marvel. But lack of discipline, wise counsel and religious training in childhood and youth is rarely, if ever, overcome.

What can society do to give children an even start in the way of instilling in them moral principles and religious ideals? A summer school for parents will not help those who really need help. Meanwhile Dorothy Ellington and other young people who go wrong through lack of home training have as great a grievance against society as society has against them.

FAULTY PAROLE LAW

The parole of F. E. Alvord, Ontario city manager, after he had served but eighteen months of his sentence in the penitentiary for the theft of $40,000 from the city, caused widespread discussion and resulted in the grand jury of San Bernardino county calling the state pardon board to San Bernardino for investigation. The members refused to be investigated, since the board is not responsible to county officials and since Alvord's parole was according to law.

However, the incident promises to result beneficially. Legislation has been proposed that will require the prison directors to give thirty days' notice to county authorities regarding the plan for hearing an application for parole. And the prison board has promised to observe this system regardless of whether such legislation materializes or not.

The entire controversy settles back to faulty law, in the opinion of the San Bernardino Sun. This paper says the theory of rehabilitation has long since outweighed the seriousness of crime, and it has been under this theory—with the continual hope for the potential or undiscovered criminal that even if apprehended the punishment will be light—that crime has steadily mounted. The surest way to curb crime is to make it certain there will be a penalty, and that the penalty will be sufficiently severe.

WOMAN AND HER DRESS

Woman and her dress are always fair topics for criticism and ridicule. The bobbed-haired, short-skirted, eyebrow-plucked, rouged female of today is the chief support of the jokester and the paragrapher, but she must not think that hers alone is the distinction of gaining the attention of the opposite sex through her audacious manner of dress. Man has condemned, derided and threatened from the days before history began, and woman has worn what she chose in every age knowing her lord and master didn't mean half she said.

Because she has discarded certain garments which tradition required her to wear, the modern woman has been reproved and disapproved. For this reason a paragraph from a newspaper printed a hundred years ago takes on some significance. A Philadelphia physician of a century ago is quoted as saying: "I anticipate the happy period when the fairest portion of the fair creation will step forth unencumbered with slabs of walnut and tires of whalebones. No other animal could survive the corset. Take an honest ox and enclose his sides with hoop-poles, put an oaken pack under him, gird the whole with a bed cord, and demand him to labor. He could labor, but it would be for breath."

In this day of mad rush and hurry, it is rather encouraging to find the hold-up man taking things easy.

Horoscope

Up to noon today the aspects are especially good, according to astrology. Neptune, Venus and the Sun are all in benefic aspect.

While this planetary government prevails it is wise to make the best possible use of every pleasant opportunity that presents itself. Both business and social activities should be pushed.

Neptune today invites travel by sea and again the most surprisingly heavy travel abroad is indicated.

There is today a sign of promise for education and it appears to indicate that there will be an accession of high aspiration among students.

Women have the best sort of guidance today, it is foretold. They should be especially fortunate in making high places for themselves.

This is held to be an auspicious day for all who seek any sort of employment, but those who aim highest will fare best.

Theatres should benefit, for new plays produced this spring are likely to have long runs, if the stars are read aright.

Happy are they who wed under this rule—since wisdom will mark their path and they have the augury of true prosperity.

It is foretold that women are to attain new positions of honor. They are to succeed as diplomats, but not until after the Coolidge administration ends.

Music and art should greatly benefit at this time, for there is for all finer things in life.

Color symbolism and influences will be much studied in the summer months when extraordinary gaiety of attire will prevail.

Passing illnesses due to the weather may be prevalent and should be avoided by special attention to diet.

Persons whose birthdate it is have a happy augury for the year, which should bring much harmony into all domestic affairs. Changes or removals, however, will not be lucky.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly neat, systematic and reliable. Those subjects of Aries usually marry early and have a long lease on life.

Today's Poem

CARES THAT FRETTED ME
The little cares that fretted me,
I lost them yesterday
Among the fields above the sea,
Among the winds at play;
Among the lowing herds,
The rustling of the trees,
Among the singing birds,
The humming of the bees.

The fears of what may come to pass,
I cast them all away
Among the clover-scented grass,
Among the new-mown hay;
Among the husking of the corn,
Where drowsy poppies nod,
Where thoughts die and good are born.

Out in the fields with God,

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

Mere instruction is not education. It is something outside. Education is something that is going on inside. It is a process; an effort; it is work.

It is no surprise, then, to educators like Dean West of Princeton that with the kindergarten methods in vogue in this country for boys and girls, as they go on, to be astounded by the fact that study is not a form of play but a form of work.

There is such a thing as the athletics of the mind. It is known that it has the same effect on man's development mentally that athletics have on the human body, giving poise, control, readiness, growth, strength and skill, athletics of the mind appear to have no place in the meridian scheme of education. Instead there is a sentimental theory in vogue that nobody should study anything that does not please him. What is he going to do when he goes out into the world of commerce?

Is he going to find it a series of pleasant, elective choices, or a series of stern necessities?

Says Dean West of Princeton: "You know that today a boy may commonly drop any study at the end of any year in our schools. How is he to get continuity of effort? How is he to master anything under such quick lunch procedure? You cannot train men that way, and unless training of our boys and girls is going to turn them into men and women, and not boys' minds in men's bodies, and girls' minds in women's bodies, how are we going to get the best basis for a sound construction either in business, politics or education? It cannot be done; the thing is not there."

It may humiliate us to think that in this vast republic, with all its wealth and resources, and its need for the best-trained minds, our public and private education is not in a good condition; but such, Dean West assures us, is the case.

A long time ago Huxley decided that man has had an education who has been trained in the way that his body and does work that is his body, and does work that, as a mechanism, it is capable of; whose intellect is a clear, cold, logic machine, with all its parts of equal strength, and in smooth working order; ready, like a steam engine, to be turned to any kind of work; whose mind is stored with a knowledge of the great and fundamental truths of nature and of the laws of human operations; one, who, no stunted ascetic, is full of life and fire, but whose passions are trained to come to heel by a vigorous will, the servant of a tender conscience; who has learned to love all beauty, whether of nature or of art, to hate all villainy, and to respect others as himself.

Is this the kind of education American youth is getting? Is it too much hope that it ever will?

Who's Who
Undaunted by the seventy-one surgical operations he has undergone as a result of his work with the X-ray, Dr. Frederick Henry Baetjer, roentgenologist of Johns Hopkins Hospital and Medical School, Baltimore, has just announced after the amputation of a finger that he will continue his work in the cause of science and suffering humanity. The operation leaves the X-ray pioneer with but a single finger and a single thumb; and he has also lost an eye from the same cause.

Baetjer was born in Baltimore, Md., August 7, 1874. He was educated at Johns Hopkins where he received his A. B. in 1897 and his M. D. in 1901. From 1917 to 1919 he was professor of roentgenology and roentgenologist of Johns Hopkins university and hospital, and major of the medical corps of the U. S. A. From 1911 to 1912 he was president of the American Roentgen Ray society.

Baetjer is the author of numerous publications.

REV. COLE SPEAKS ON 'RISEN CHRIST'

Pastor Of Central Christian Church Tells Tragedy Of Mt. Calvary

"The Great Hope of Easter Morning" was the sermon preached yesterday morning at Central Christian church by Rev. Clifford A. Cole, pastor. He said:

"Every mile of the way we have passed over unmarked dead. And all the trackless ways of the seven seas are strewn with the dead of the ages.

"We live but a few years. Every century three generations enter their graves. For unreckoned ages the tombs have been filling and the dead outnumber the living a thousand-fold. There is no spot but that you may say 'The dead are here.' Since Adam, since that first grave, we have all approached it. Oh, what a nightmare it has been. The most fearful of all the fearsome things of earth!

"This unescapable fate was shared by three men, who one Passover, died at Jerusalem on the hill of execution, just outside the city wall. But strangely, two members of the Supreme Court asked for the body of one, took it down from the cross and laid it in a new tomb in a private garden near Calvary. Watched by weeping women, just as since the first burial, they closed the doors of the sepulchre and went in sorrow. The tomb was occupied. Men knew the dead was there, just as in every tomb since tombs were made. A Roman officer sealed it, guaranteeing that the dead should stay in the tomb. Death was the penalty for any who broke the seal or took away the dead. So this tomb joined the somber millions, and the dead was there. And as in myriads of other deaths, friends came. As it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, troubled women found an open grave, and a smiling messenger with a word never spoken in all the world before, 'He is risen.'

Dead Are Permanent
"Not here. But in every clime, in every age, the dead are permanent, unchanging tenants of their narrow houses. In Nara's tomb is the fine dust of myth-clouded emperors, the gods of old Japan. In Ceylon, Buddha's heart wastes in a golden urn. By the Nile lie the mummified forms of the great of Egypt. In Mt. Vernon are watched the ashes of George Washington. Only in Joseph's garden is an empty tomb.

"Oh, friends, it is our imperishable faith in His resurrection from the dead, the first-fruits of them that sleep, that gives us our hope and expectation to enter into eternal life. Did He not say to us all? 'Because I live, ye shall live also?' First-fruits promise a full harvest to follow. We are the harvest; we, the dead that have peopled the tombs of the ages, we, the dead, shall awaken! It is the promise of glorious victory after seeming defeat. Thanks be to God who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ!

"I look to another miracle morning, distant, or near? It will be at dawn again, I think, when light is reborn after night. It will be spring, sweet with flowers, sparkling with dew, when life shall return out of the earth, when the graves shall give up their dead, when creation shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the liberty of the glory of the children of God. On that glad, new Easter morning every tomb in every land shall be open to the dawn as Joseph's, by the same divine power. And over every tomb and over the leaping waves of the seven seas the resurrection angel shall say of us every one the same words, 'He is not here. He is risen.' The places that have known the dead shall know them no more forever. They that have done good shall arise to life eternal. This is the certain faith of the believer; this is the great hope of the Easter morning."

EASTER'S POWER TOLD BY PASTOR

Rev. Thomas of Grand View Tells of Resurrection And Its Effect

"The Power of His Resurrection" was the Easter sermon by Rev. George W. Thomas pastor of Grand View Community church, who said:

"The final events of the Lord's week of suffering move on leaden feet. It has seemed to us who have lived them over again loved what they seemed to the Lord in the bitterness of long drawn out agony of body and soul, as if they would never end. The last words are like the last slow drops of blood from a fatal wound as He is laid hopelessly in the tomb, stark white and dead, his disciples hopeless and fled, the women weeping and helpless in the gathering gloom of night.

"Comes then another endless day, of silence and despair, while the heart aches of those who loved Him to the end—and the end has now come, the hopeless end of a blasted vision.

"But Resurrection Day moves on wings. Truly on the wings of the morning, heralded by the dawning day, radiant with undreamed of hope, mighty with creative power a new world sweeps into being. It breaks the bonds of space and time, brings immortality into light, and flings the breath of God into a new Creation.

Resurrection

"There are those who question the credibility of the Resurrection. I pity them, if they must question the best attested fact of history. First of all, they must doubt Jesus himself, Jesus of the matchless truth and purity and beauty of word and life. He knew and foretold all, but if He lied about His Resurrection He was the cruellest liar the world ever saw. I pity the man who dares to claim that. If Jesus was merely mistaken why have His enemies never proved it? The historians of the time never proved Him in error.

"Second, they must doubt the facts of nearly two thousand years of Christian History, facts that in spite of all opposition have put Jesus Christ increasingly into every walk and avenue of life, into every land and language as a Risen Redeemer who proves His Redemption to every generation anew. Not a dead reformer, but a living Saviour is He today, and He can not be killed out of the life of mankind.

Incredible Miracle
"Third, they must account for the most incredible miracle of all time, human record, unless it be simply and gloriously true that Jesus did rise from the dead, return to His disciples, reassure them, and remain with them in a new and wondrous relationship.

"That miracle is the existence of the Christian church with all its mighty influence and power. How did a band of scattered, despairing, despised, ignorant fisherman who had followed a lying teacher, how did they become a world wide power, remade civilization, compelled the eagles of Rome to bow before the Cross, and set the throne of Christ above the throne of the Caesars? Such achievements are not those of the deluded fools who have been cheated, disappointed and broken.

Glorious Deeds

"No, they are the glorious deeds of those who have seen a tomb door become the portal of a new immortality, and felt a new power thrill from the heart of the Creator, who glory in a Christ who died but lives again. The power of His Resurrection is the power of a new final fact, a justified faith, a glorified life. It rings in the songs and thrills in the hearts of millions today in every tongue and people and nation. It shall sweep through the ages till faith is lost in sight, till death is lost in life, and Heaven and earth are one forevermore."

PASTOR TELLS OF 'EASTER VICTORY'

Rev. Kringle, Zion Lutheran, Holds Special Service At Church

Rev. Henry O. Kringle spoke Easter morning at the Zion Lutheran church using the theme "The Glorious Easter Victory." The services opened with a processional hymn by the Sunday school. The choir, under the direction of M. D. Stecher sang two appropriate anthems. Rev. Kringle said:

"This Easter—Easter, the festival of resurrection and life, the time when in nature the earth pulsates with the throbs of renewed energy and force, when the fig tree putteth forth his buds and the vines give a good swell. And it is Easter in the church of God.

"We have in the past week beheld our Lord's crucifixion. Today we contemplate another scene. As the rising sun tinges with its golden beads the eastern skies, He that lay in that tomb sits up erect and issues forth. The earth shakes at His footsteps, the guards fall in convulsive tremor as dead men, the rocks render assunder, while angels, descending, roll away the ponderous stone from the door of the sepulchre and sit in guard upon the vacant tomb and proclaim its power broken and its truth."

PASTOR TALKS ON 'CHRIST OF TODAY'

Rev. Calderwood Takes as Easter Sermon Jesus' Resurrection

"The Christ of Today" was the subject of the Easter sermon delivered yesterday morning at Congregational church by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor. He said:

"The two Marys loved Jesus, but remembering his promise that on the third day he would arise from the dead, they went to the sepulchre to see if he were still there. But not finding him in the sepulchre they were much perplexed and showed their astonishment to the angels who stood guard over the door. The angels said, 'Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen.' The Marys wanted the living Christ, but searched for him where the dead Jesus had been placed.

"It is from this incident that our text is taken. My purpose is to demonstrate that we have a different Christ than He who walked and taught along the shores of Galilee nineteen hundred years ago, but Christ is a living power instead of a dead leader. I hope to indicate the value of conceiving Christ to a living reality instead of only an historical character.

Christ of Today

"The statement of my subject raises in our minds the question, 'Is not the Christ of today the same as the Christ of centuries ago?' Christ is the same Christ in each age, but the Christ of the different ages is different for the people of those ages because they conceive of Him differently. I bear my testimony that I have a larger Christ than I had before I entered into the ministry.

"We need a Christ of today. No age has needed him more than ours needs Him. Our problems are complex and difficult. We seldom try Christ's solutions. There is not a single industrial, national, social or individual problem but that Christ can help us solve. We need today an ethic beyond our own meagre ethic. We need a Christ of yesterday with a vague, remote, hereditary influence upon us; but a vital, personal, near, living Christ. The branch that abides not in the vine does not bear fruit; it withers; it is cut off; it dies. Except indwelling Christ, who is the life in Christ by trusting him in their problems and following him, they fail; they bear no fruit; they are cut off and die.

Larger Victories

"We have a Christ of today. He is not out of touch with our problems, Christ is a living force in the minds and imaginations of many men. He calls us to new battles and larger victories. The Christ of today relates us to God. He has power over men's lives. Though Jesus was buried in the tomb, we can be nearer to Him today than was the rich young ruler who knew Him only in the flesh. The spirit of the living Christ will guide us into all truth. He is speaking and will speak to you just as effectively as he spoke to Paul. 'I will be with you even unto the end of the world.'

"Our Christ is not far from us, but is with us. He is listening to us as we pray. He is sustaining us as we bear our burdens. When we weep beside the grave, Christ weeps with us. When we suffer, we have a pang into his heart. When we sin, he grieves. When we succeed, he rejoices. When we are in difficulty, he is by our side. We should rejoice this Easter Day that we have more than the memory of an historical character; we have a living teacher and master who is our Lord and Saviour."

Central Christian Sets Church Night Meeting

The weekly church night meeting of Central Christian church will be held Wednesday night, with dinner served at 6:30 o'clock. The devotional service will be held at 7:10 o'clock with prayer meeting following. Floyd Mercer will be in charge. Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of the church, will speak at the Wilshire Christian church Wednesday night on his trip to Europe speaking on the subject, "Tours of the Shrines of Religious Freedom."

one time occupant risen. "He is not here, He is risen" was their cry.

Christ Is Risen

"That is the event. Christ is risen. The spirit of gladness, sublimest exultation, hope and joy, is abroad. What foundations of blessed hope has it laid for our fallen human race. There is sin, what desolation has it wrought in the earth, how much suffering and sorrow, defilement and bereavement. Christ has broken its power. He has loosed its heavy chains. By His victory on Calvary and His glorious resurrection He has freed penitent believing sinners from its bondage as the scripture says: 'He was delivered for our offenses and was raised again for our justification.'

"Christ plainly showed that He had triumphed over all His infernal enemies, sin, death and the devil, by His glorious resurrection. Therefore let us rejoice in the fact, 'that God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness, but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth."

POWER OF EASTER MESSAGE IS TOLD

Rev. Kemp, St. Mark's Pastor, Gives Lesson In Christ's Rising

"Easter Faith Is That In Eternal Life" was the sermon delivered yesterday by Rev. Philip K. Kemp, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church. He said:

"The power of the Easter message comes pressing in upon us as we read again the glorious words that came to the women at the tomb and later to the disciples: 'He is risen; He is not here'; then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord. That wonderful conviction that the words said, hearing, speaking with the same historic personality whom they had followed during the period of His ministry. Easter is truly the touchstone of the Christian faith, for it lights up everything that went before and all that comes afterwards. The ministry of Jesus is alone made comprehensible by it, for it tells of the eternal ministry of God. The earthly ministry of Jesus cannot be separated from His eternal life as the Son of God.

"It asks us in unmistakable tones what do we mean by eternal life. If we die shall we live again and in what form and where? By eternal life I am sure we mean a life of perfect correspondence with the life of God. Jesus has given us the most perfect example. It is not an endless existence, which would be far from desirable, but a life of perfect relationship to God.

"That which we begin to live here in this life must go on in the life beyond, where we are liberated from the power of senses and into the life of pure spirit. There is no break in the life with God. This feeling about eternal life, which is the doctrine of Jesus, becomes more real to us as we find testimony for it in the words of science. Prof. Snowden in his recent book, 'Immortality,' has drawn a wonderful parallel. In the world of nature life consists in a more or less perfect correspondence with environment. It goes on unchecked as it adapts itself to the surroundings of soil, air, temperature, food, light, activity and rest.

"Death comes from lack of adjustment. Perfect knowledge and perfect adjustment make for a continued existence. This is nothing more than perfect correspondence with God, who is the author of all life. We all know how this works in the physical and the spiritual. This is life eternal: to know Thee, the only True God, and Jesus Christ whom Thou hast sent.

"This is our Christian faith, that immortality comes from life of perfect correspondence with God. Our Lord Jesus Christ has given us the example of the ideal. For His life shows perfect relationship to God in sinlessness and perfect faith. Easter calls us to see this as the goal toward which we shall strive if we would seek eternal life as it called the first disciples to seek a closer fellowship with God, for nothing can separate them from the love of God as revealed to them in Jesus Christ, their Lord and our Savior to life eternal."

GLENDALE SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

A very delightful entertainment was given at the sanitarium Saturday night. Miss Clara Jarde, of San Pedro, a lyric soprano with an exquisite voice, sang with great ease and charm. So entranced was the audience, that after her closing group they seemed unwilling to leave, and demanded that she repeat her last number, "The Open Secret" by Huntington Woodman. Many of those present predicted a great future for this young woman.

Miss Jarde was assisted by Miss Kathryn Privett, a winsome young woman, who gave two groups of interesting readings. Her most important number was "Humoresque" by Fanny Hurst, to which she gave a delightful humor and considerable pathos.

Miss Maxine Russell, of Sierra Madre, furnished pleasing accompaniments, and also played two interesting piano solos. Altogether it was a program well worth hearing.

On Tuesday night of this week, Dr. James Henry McLaren of Pasadena, dramatic orator of California, will give a lecture entertainment and impersonation of Robert Burns. There will also be some old favorite Scotch songs. This entertainment is spoken of as "the rarest treat on the American platform."

St. Mark's Parish To Hold Dinner In Hall

A parish dinner of St. Mark's Episcopal church will be held Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock at the Guild hall. Dinner will be served by St. Mark's Guild. Mrs. Helen Campbell is in charge.

REV. MOON TALKS ON FISH PARABLE

Loaves, Fishes Text Taken By Alliance Pastor For Easter Talk

In addition to observing with appropriate services Easter Sunday, the Christian and Missionary Alliance congregation took up the annual foreign missionary offering, which amounted to $14,000, an increase of $4000 over last year. Rev. R. H. Moon's sermon was: "Give Ye Them to Eat." He said:

"These words that Jesus spoke to the disciples in the olden days are just as binding to the disciples of today. We have the food and if the people do not come to church, it is because we do not set a better table than the world with its attractions. The Devil has seen this hunger of the people today, and he is putting a pacifier in their mouths. In India it is false gods, in Africa, the witch doctors and charmers, and in America it is automobiles and worldly pleasures. Only the food which the Christian has will completely satisfy.

Contrasting the wrong with the right way of feeding the multitude, he brought out the inability of the disciples to meet the situation, as they wanted to send the people away. This very same thing is being done in the churches today; many careworn people come for spiritual food and are sent away hungry.

"Notice the first thing that Jesus did: He commanded that all be quiet. This is the place where all Christians must be before God can do anything for them. Jesus then took the five loaves and the two fishes, which was 'all' that they had. God does not look at the size of our gifts, but at the size of our hearts, for He can multiply our gifts today, just as He did the loaves and fishes then. Next, Christ blessed their gift. Think of the multitude of people today who seek to do things their own way without the blessing of God on what they are doing. Then, Jesus broke it. Oh, the heartaches and suffering that we have to sometimes go through so that God may break us and our gifts."

"And, last of all, Christ gave it. Some Christians never do anything but go to the altar and receive a blessing. We should give to the multitude that which we have, for the real joy is in giving out to others. You cannot beat God-giving, as evidenced by the fact that there were twelve baskets remaining after the people had eaten and were filled."

Loyal Temperance Club Holds Saturday Meet

Members of the Loyal Temperance Union met Saturday afternoon in the home of the president, Miss Zora Glassey, of 460 West California avenue. Fifteen members were present. Miss Glassey had charge of the business meeting, after which a musical program was given. James and Eleanor Bradley read quotations from the Bible, and piano solos were given by Eleanor Johns, Edith Paulitzke and Frank Slave. The meeting was held under an oak tree in the garden of the Glassey home and an Easter egg hunt was held. Teddy Olson won the prize. A birthday cake decorated in pink and white for Doris and James Bradley was a feature of the afternoon. A meeting will be held next Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Glassey home.

Tropico Delegates Are To Attend Meeting

J. Allen Adams and Glenn B. Porter are delegates from Tropico Presbyterian church to the meeting of the semi-annual Los Angeles Presbytery, which will be held tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, at First Presbyterian church, Pasadena. Dr. James F. Winnard, pastor of Tropico Presbyterian church, plans to attend on Wednesday.

First Lutheran Easter Service Sets Record

Thirty-three new members were received, which makes a total of forty-seven since the first of the year. Dr. Funk preached on "An Easter Message." Special music was rendered by the choir.

Salt Lake Minister In Tropico Church Pulpit

Rev. H. O. Fee, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, Salt Lake City, Utah, preached both services yesterday at the Tropico Presbyterian church. Dr. James F. Winnard, pastor, who has been confined to his home by illness for the past week was unable to fill the pulpit. Special Easter anthems were rendered by the choir.

how to have clean rugs

There are three kinds of dirt in your rugs, viz: surface dirt, clinging litter and embedded grit—of these the latter, which is hidden from the eye, not only is the most difficult of removal but actually grinds off the soft nap under shoe pressure and the rocking of chairs.

While the air suction of any electric vacuum cleaner will collect surface dirt, it fails to dislodge the destructive grit caught in the depths of the nap.

Only a beating can shake out such nap-wearing, hidden grit, and only The Hoover beats rugs electrically, on your floors, without scattering the dirt.

To have thoroughly clean rugs you must use a Hoover. We advise The Hoover because it is the ONE electric cleaner that can be GUARANTEED to get ALL the dirt and so prolong the life of your rugs.

Red Cross Chapter To Meet On Wednesday

Mrs. John Robert White, Jr., chairman of Red Cross, announces that there will be no meeting until 10 o'clock Wednesday, April 22, at her home, 347 North Orange street, when the day will be spent sewing. Several of the officers are attending the club convention this week at Santa Barbara.

Madrigal Club To Give Music Concert Friday

Members of Madrigal club of Glendale, will give an old-time concert at 8 o'clock Friday night at First Congregational church. The program will be given in the lower auditorium.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, April 13.—Plans are in the air for a local Kiwanis club. Fostering the movement are the following prominent citizens, Mark S. Collins, Theo. Belanger, Lee Merritt and B. Anwalt.

Mrs. Milford Howard will leave for a motor trip to Alabama on Wednesday. On reaching the southern state, Mrs. Howard will join her husband who has been actively engaged there in promoting a school system of education for the white mountaineers. Mr. Howard, an ex-congressman, has devoted the past few years to this movement and last year delivered a most interesting talk to the members of the local P.-T. A. here.

Mrs. Shirley Wetmore of Mira Vista drive, will open her home tomorrow to the Home economics department of the Woman's club.

"Charley's Aunt" packed the local picture house during the past two days, Saturday's matinee being the highwater mark for attendance. Tonight will mark the close of the picture. On Wednesday night Manager Doyle announces he will have another family night, when the entire family will be admitted for the sum of 50 cents. Everyone holding a ticket on the $10 set of dishes is requested to have his ticket handy on Wednesday night, as the drawing will take place some time during that performance. "Excuse me" will be the feature picture with the usual comedy. The much-talked-of "Golden Bed" will be the attraction on Saturday night and Sunday. Manager Doyle is considering putting on the Sunday matinees as a regular thing, providing the attendance warrants.

Women of the Montrose Community church, Ladies' Aid, held a cooked food sale on Saturday in the Eddings electric store. Besides pies and cakes of the home-

LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, April 13.—Girl Scouts of La Crescenta enjoyed an instructive meeting Friday night. They passed tests to gain the merit badges which are to be awarded at the end of the month, when members will hold an honor court in conjunction with the Boy Scouts of the valley. Saturday a number of the girls went on a hike, accompanied by their captain, Mrs. Jessie Hansen. Lunch was eaten in the hill trails back of the town, and the party returned in time to attend the made variety there were gaily-colored Easter eggs. Mrs. George Durr was in charge of arrangements.

Miss Jane Hoham has returned from San Jose, where she visited with her family. Miss Hoham teaches the first grade in the Montrose school.

matinee of "Charley's Aunt." Mrs. D. Barkley of East Altura avenue is entertaining as her house guests her sister, Mrs. Victoria Wagner, and daughter, Miss Elsie Wagner. Mrs. Wagner intends to spend the summer here, having just arrived from Plattsville, Miss.

Practically all the Highway Highlands families attended the Sunrise services at the Hollywood Bowl yesterday morning. Many attending remained for the afternoon program.

Plans are now under way by a group of live-wire residents of La Crescenta valley for a real, old-fashioned Fourth of July.

The Parent-Teacher Association Reading circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Eloise Farmer on Altura avenue Wednesday at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Vernon Hall will have charge of the reading from "Training of the Boy and Girl." At noon the lunch basket will be unpacked, the hostess furnishing coffee. Reading will be resumed at 1 o'clock. These meetings are of great value to the mothers, as general problems in child rearing are discussed.

Frank L. Howard of Montrose has been awarded the contract for the building of the Women's clubhouse in the valley. Work will begin at once, the building to be erected on the club lots at the corner of Los Angeles and Piedmont avenues. Two wings will project from the main unit for the kitchen and card room. The exterior will be of shingle finish. The fireplace will be at the north end of the main room. It is understood the members must hold one meeting in the completed building before the end of the club year to hold possession of the lots, which were given to the club some years ago.

Wages in the United States are approximately double those paid in Great Britain, and the purchasing power of wages is much higher in the United States than in any other country.

Oratorio Club Plans Rehearsal Tuesday

John Smallman will have charge of the rehearsal at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at Harvard High school of the Oratorio department of Glendale Music club. The singers are now working on selections for their concert early in May.

Rev. Livingston Goes To Funeral of Nephew

Rev. J. C. Livingston, pastor of Casa Verdugo church, left last night for San Francisco to attend the funeral services for his nephew, who has been an invalid for several years as a result of his experience in the service during the World War.

Church Women to Hear Forest Expert Lecture

George H. Barnes, president of the American Reforestation association will speak at the 12:30 o'clock luncheon Thursday at First Congregational church. At 10 o'clock in the morning, Mrs. H. Montague Porter, president, will direct an executive board meeting. The Auxiliary will meet at 11 o'clock. The missionary meeting under Mrs. Levi Chubbuck will be held at 1:45 o'clock. Mrs. J. F. Watson will tell of the Santee Indian Mission school.

People had not awakened to the fact that definite and concerted effort was instrumental in and essential to Community Growth. Now there is scarcely a city or a village in all this broad land but is concerned with community building campaigns of one kind or another. The business men, professions and trades have a peculiar part in this work. The business center of a city is the community center, the front door of the city, and those engaged in business must be to the fore in movements for the good of the community. They are known and must be, in a sense, the leaders. Antiquated business methods, out-of-date stores, ill-kept offices, poorly trained workers cannot attract new people or hold the old. You judge a city or a village by its stores—its business center. So the storekeepers, the doctors, the lawyers, the mechanics, those who engage in business, of any kind are directly responsible for the good name of the city. This is a difficult problem. How can a business man put up a good front without business? And who will give him business unless he has an attractive business policy? That problem has long since worked itself out in Glendale. We have the finest business centers in the southwest; we have progressive business men, able professional men and women and skilled workers in all trades. On the other hand, the people of Glendale have realized the necessity of cooperating with the merchants and have spent their money in Glendale to a great extent. The advertisers on this page have been singularly successful in their campaign to make trading in Glendale popular by providing the merchandise and the service the people require, and by educating the few to the value of cooperation. Community building is a big question, but easily solved when each one does his part. There is no better way to aid community growth than by spending our money at home.	Hunt & Bowers Furniture Co. New and Used Goods 117 S. DARKENED WINDOWS

The incident quieted her for a moment. She turned to Flint with comparative calm. "The rings, I wish you to understand, are my own," she said.

"Are, yes, but not were. There is a big difference there. Unless of course, you—obtained them after Mr. Hurst's death?" Flint gave a rising infection to his last words which turned them into an ironical question.

The girl glared at him without replying, her lips drawn back a little over her sharp, gleaming teeth.

"Perhaps, though, it was not you but the man with you who took them?" Again the goading, interrogatory infection.

"What man?"

Graham thought he detected a new note in the girl's voice. It was as if for an instant she held her breath.

"That's just what I want to know. Who was he?"

"There was no man."

The new note sounded again. Graham fancied it was a note of fear.

"Now, Miss Hurst, what's the use of denying it?" argued Flint. "We know there was a man."

"There was not. I take my oath there was not."

The attitude of defiance she had assumed—head high, hand outstretched, was magnificent. Graham could not repress a thrill of admiration. Her fury had suddenly given place to an almost terrifying intensity of calm. She had become a creature of frozen fire. Graham, he knew not why, found himself holding his breath.

Her next words, however, gave no hint of inner agitation. "I am curious to know how you traced those rings to me," she said.

"By a very simple process of deduction, Miss Hurst, and a little luck." Flint's manner was now almost confidential. "I learned that Mr. Tessier wanted certain rings owned by your father. I knew that he was absolutely unscrupulous where it was a matter of collecting, and never asked uncomfortable questions. Who, I asked myself, would a person apply to first, if he wanted to sell a stolen ring? Why, naturally, to Mr. Tessier. So we put one of our people in his house to watch anyone who had confidential dealings with him. Miss Meecham appeared and seemed to fill the bill. We followed her trail and it led us—here. Very simple, you see."

Estelle turned a withering glance on her old governess: "Bungler!" she sneered.

"Bungler, Miss Hurst," Flint interjected quickly. "You shouldn't have left a green sangle from your dress in the ring tray. That told the story. Green sangles make pretty little claws, my dear lady, either dropped in ring trays, or on gentlemen's coat cuffs."

The girl could not repress a start. Graham thought that Flint could not have noticed it, for he let the subject drop abruptly.

"Tell me something more about the evening, won't you?" he said, with a geniality which surprised Graham. "You were to dine with Mrs. Jack Preston, weren't you? But Mrs. Preston says you never came. How was that?"

Estelle watched him intently through narrowed eyelids. It was plain that she picked her words with care as she answered.

"I went to another friend's, a friend whom I had never met. He had forbidden me to go there. I was not a child, to be told I might or I might not. But to avoid trouble I said I was going to Mrs. Preston's."

"Why did you come home so early?"

"I see, I see," broke in Flint. "Now I'll just run over your story to see if I've got all the points straight. Every little thing helps, and of course you want to run your father's murderer to earth as much as any of us."

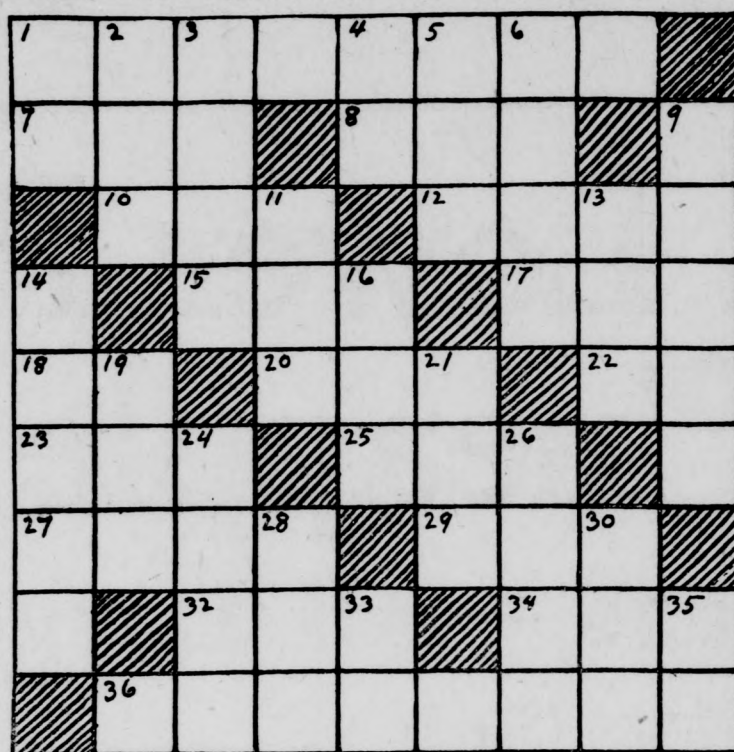

Estelle moistened her lips furtively. "Of course," she muttered.

"Very well, now correct me, please, if I have anything wrong."

CROSS WORD PUZZLE

COMPILED FOR GLENDALE EVENING NEWS READERS

Copyright, 1923, By The George Matthew Adams Service

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on the diagram. Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterrupted. Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white square that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white squares remain uninterrupted.

We'll begin with your going out to dinner at 6:30, in a green-spangled gown, to dine with a friend your father had forbidden you to see. Your friend's name, please, Miss Hurst.

Flint eyed her fixedly. "Her name, please," he repeated quickly.

"Van Winkler."

"Ah, German! Mr. Hurst, I hear, did not like Germans. Her address, please."

"Why are you asking all these questions?" cried Estelle angrily. "Her address won't help you. She left for Mexico the next day."

Flint cast a quick glance at Graham, which he did not understand.

"Well, to continue. You leave early, and come home to get the rings you covet. You reach the house about 8 o'clock, and have taken the money and the rings from the safe, when your father unexpectedly returns. Why do you suppose Miss Smith telephoned him to come back? Oh, yes, it was Miss Smith who telephoned. Did you know that?"

Watching Estelle's face, Graham decided that he would be sorry for Miss Smith should the two women meet.

"Yes, Miss Smith telephoned to him," repeated Flint suavely. "And he came, and you quarreled—about Miss Smith herself, you say. Then you go upstairs, change your gown, pack a bag, come downstairs again, hearing nothing, no voices, no shot?"

"You didn't look in the library again?"

"No."

"So your father might have been lying there dead, when you passed by, mightn't he?"

The girl shuddered.

"Or perhaps you may have passed the murderer in the hall. Sergeant Bassett said the house was dark when he entered. Perhaps the man the kitchen maid heard in the library was hiding there."

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Copyright, 1923, By The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BOUNCER

Through the woods hopped Uncle Wiggily Longears, the bunny rabbit gentleman. He twinkled his pink nose. Then he stopped beneath a big oak tree and said: "I wonder what sort of adventure I will have today?"

No one answered him. The woods were very still and quiet. Not even the Fuzzy Fox nor the Woosie Wolf were there to make a noise.

"I must hop on a little farther if I am to find an adventure," said Uncle Wiggily to himself.

So on he hopped, up hill and down dale, until he came to another part of the woods. There he saw a tree, with a branch sticking out, not far from the ground, like the low rail of a fence.

"I'll sit down on that tree branch and rest myself," said Mr. Longears, and this he did, the branch bending down lower toward the ground as the bunny sat on it.

Uncle Wiggily had not been sitting there very long before, all of a sudden, he heard a rustling noise in the bushes.

"Someone is coming!" whispered the rabbit uncle to himself. Nearer and nearer came the rustling sound. Nearer and closer and louder the noise was heard, until, all of a quickness, out of the bushes popped Sammie Littlebit, the rabbit boy.

"Oh, hello, Uncle Wiggily!" cried Sammie, jolly like and joyful.

"How are you, Sammie?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I thought you might be one of the bad chaps."

"Oh, no, I'm not a bad chap!" laughed Sammie. "At least the lady mouse teacher in the hollow stump school said I was good today, so she let me out a little ahead of time. That's why I'm here. May I sit down beside you on that outsticking tree branch, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Surely," politely answered Mr. Longears. So Sammie sat down and the tree branch bent lower toward the ground.

"It's a nice day, isn't it?" asked Sammie, wanting to say something.

"A very fine day," agreed the rabbit gentleman.

"It isn't going to rain, either," went on Sammie. "Is it?"

"I think not," said Mr. Longears.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Sammie. "I'm glad it isn't going to rain, 'cause if it rained, Uncle Wiggily, and I had a penny to go to the store to buy a lollipop I couldn't go if it rained. But I can't go to the store, anyhow, to buy a lollipop, 'cause I haven't any penny!"

"Haven't you?" asked Uncle Wiggily, casual like and indifferent.

"No," went on Sammie. "Have you? 'Cause if you have a penny you could go to the store now, Uncle Wiggily, before it rains, and get a lollipop, couldn't you?"

"I guess I could, Sammie," chuckled Mr. Longears. "Wait until I look and see if I have a penny." Uncle Wiggily quickly jumped up off the bent-down branch. And, as he did so, the branch, no longer held down by the bunny's weight, bounced up in the air.

Sammie bounced with it! Up in the air he bounced the little rabbit boy, as if he were a rubber ball.

"Oh! Oh!" he cried, turning over and over like a lifting leaf.

"Don't be afraid!" shouted Uncle Wiggily. "I'll catch you as you come down, Sammie!" and, truly enough, when the tree branch had bounced Sammie up in the air the bunny gentleman caught the little rabbit boy as he fell, and so Sammie didn't bang his nose and wasn't hurt at all.

"But I thought I was going to be smashed!" he said.

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "I shouldn't have left you on that tree bouncer when I got up to see if I had a penny."

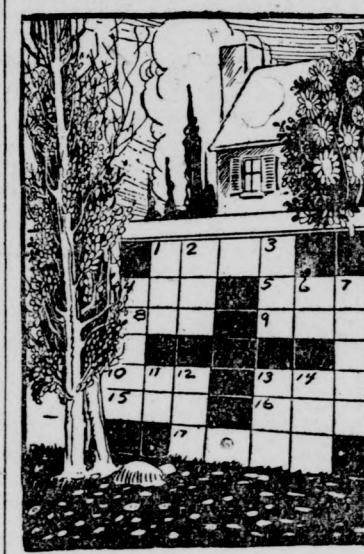

"Have you?" asked Sammie.

"Have I what?" inquired Mr. Longears.

"A penny."

"Yes," laughed the rabbit gentleman, thrusting his paw into his pocket. "I have!" And with the penny he bought Sammie a lollipop for having sent him into the air on the bouncer. So it all happened for the best, you see. And if the egg beater doesn't splash whipped cream on the cake of soap and make it look like a chocolate éclair you shall next hear about Uncle Wiggily's fur brush.

HAY FEVER

History and Causes
Gentle Spring—in sunshine clad,
Well dost thou thy power display!
For winter maketh the light heart sad,
And thou—thou maketh the sad heart gay
—Charles D'Orleans.

We all subscribe to D'Orleans' sentiment, except a few million or so hay fever victims. With H. I. Phillips they bemoan

Hay Fever days are here again. The saddest of the year; When man feels like a tin roof's drain
And sneezes through his ear.

The first medical writer to mention hay fever was Botalous of Pavia, in 1565, when he described patients with headache, itching of the nose and sneezing from the odor of roses. Thereafter there were several writers who mentioned, as medical curiosities, patients with catarrh and asthma, just at the time of the blossoming of roses.

It was not until 1819, however, that Hay Fever was recognized as a disorder in itself, when the English physician, Dr. John Bostock, described his own case. Later he gave a more detailed account of the disease under the name of summer catarrh. In those days the cause was not known, although it had been called Hay Fever for some time because it was thought that the disease was produced by the hay fields in some manner.

In 1830 John Elliotson suggested that the condition did not depend upon hay, but on the fresh flowers and grasses and probably grass pollen. Twenty years later Dr. Blackly, another English physician who suffered from Hay Fever, experimented on himself with pollens and demonstrated that the symptoms were produced by the different pollens. Later a Dr. Dumbough, also a hay fever sufferer, found that the pollen of the pollens brought in his symptoms in a more intense form.

So you see it was by doctors experimenting upon themselves that the cause of this disease was determined.

I got this data from an article on Spring Hay Fever, written by Dr. Chandler Walker in the May, 1923, issue of Hygeia, a medical magazine written for the laymen and published by the American Medical Association.

It is the pollen that is wafted through the air from plants that have to depend upon this method for their pollination, that produces the symptoms of Hay Fever in susceptible persons. Plants that are insect pollinated usually have much heavier and often-times sticky pollens, and these are not so often the cause of the disorder.

The newer name of Hay Fever caused by pollens is Pollinosis.

There are two seasonal types of Hay Fever or Pollinosis—the Spring or early or Rose Fever, and the late form, sometimes called Autumnal catarrh. The spring forms are produced by trees, especially the maple, poplar, common cottonwood, and grasses, dandelions, daisies. The fall or later forms are caused mostly by ragweed in any of its varieties, goldenrod and other fall flowers.

There are other things besides pollen that will cause the symptoms of Hay Fever in susceptible persons; for instance, certain sachets and perfumes, certain foods and drugs, and animal emanations such as would come from feathers, fur, wool and the dandruff from living animals. These same things in susceptible persons may cause asthma and bronchitis.

The acute inflammation of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat, caused by pollen and these things I have enumerated, is known in the new medical terminology as Allergic Coryza. Coryza is the term for an acute cold. By allergy is meant a super-sensitive reaction to certain proteins.

Tomorrow—Treatment and Preventing of Hay Fever.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

ATTRACTIVE ARMS

The arms must be attractive not only because of their shape, but their color. The skin must be beautifully fine and clear and whiter than the face, the elbows chubby, and if not an ornament to the arms, at least, inconspicuous.

It's easiest to make the arms a nice color. "Gooseflesh," the descriptive term we give to clogged pores that would not be tolerated on the face, can be cured by scrub water, using a mild soap such as castile, and by rinsing them with cold water to close the pores. If the skin is in bad shape, cleansing the fact that they may be too fat or thin, for that is corrected by diet. Often the forearm is too fat and the rest bony; often the upper arm is huge and dwindles off in a mean way toward the wrist. That's when you want to exercise! Almost any arm work from swinging a tennis racket to making beds and handling a broom will do; failing such pleasant or useful ways of acquiring pretty arms, take daily exercise by tensing the muscles of the arms and shoulders by working hard at an imaginary oar, or pulling a heavy, imaginary weight.

When I say tense the muscles, I mean to make fists of hands and to make every muscle hard and taut while you are exercising.

Worried Frances:—Consult a doctor about the blemishes if you think they detract from your appearance; do not try to remove moles yourself, especially those on your face. Any mark on the face really not blemishes and are not unbecoming for they sometimes give contrast like the little piece of court plaster that the ladies in colonial days wore to bring out the clearness in their skins.

John T. H.:—Consult a skin specialist about having the tattoo removed.

These Arms Are Graceful

Insomnia:—Try a warm bath before retiring, and take a pleasant book to bed with you to read until you relax. It is not so much the loss of sleep that you feel as the worry over it.

Tomorrow—Answered Letters

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal letter is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

WEEK IS ACCORDED ANIMALS OF CITY

Mayor Issues Proclamation As Humane Society Asks Observance

Be Kind to Animals week was officially opened today in Glendale with the issuance of a proclamation by Mayor Spencer Robinson urging co-operation with the Glendale Humane society in observance of the week. The proclamation follows:

"I deem it both a pleasure and a duty to call the attention of the citizens of Glendale to be kind to animals week and humane Sunday, which will be nationally observed the week of April 13 to 19. "Dumb creatures always have been and always will be inseparably linked with members of the human family. There is no more companionable and faithful friend than the dog. Upon insectivorous birds we are largely dependent for the safety of our crops. The very life of the world is dependent on the milk given by the cow. It is fitting that these helpless creatures, which we gather about us, should receive our care and consideration. Be kind to animals week reminds us of this obligation. I respectfully recommend that all our citizens co-operate in the observance of this week with the Glendale Humane society, an organization meriting our warmest support.

"Sincerely yours,
"SPENCER ROBINSON,
"Mayor."

The Glendale organization will take part in the seventeenth annual convention of the State Humane association of California to be held April 23, 24 and 25, at Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside.

YORBA LINDA, April 13.—With new machinery installed and being tried out, the Foothill Groves Packing house is now ready to pack lemons and oranges using the Brodger system. This is the first installation of the process in Orange county, and the results are being watched with much interest by growers and packing house men. While the machinery is expensive, it is stated that the savings resulting from not having to ice refrigerator cars in which fruit is shipped means a saving of from 12 to 15 cents on each box of fruit. The fruit reaches the market in good condition and commands high prices, it is said.

have pressed through a wide-meshed sieve. Flavor with one teaspoon of lemon juice and heap on left-over cake slices. Chill and serve. (Note: A thin, boiled custard may be used to moisten the cake slices if they are stale, before this egg-peach mixture is piled upon them.)

Baked Beef Loaf—Mix together three cups of cold, baked beans, two medium-sized peeled onions finely minced, one cup of stale white-bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon of salt, a generous pinch of pepper, one cup of mashed cooked carrots and two tablespoons of tomato catsup. Form this mixture into a loaf in a greased bread pan and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven after pouring a little melted butter over the top.

"Orange Bread Pudding"—(Contributed.) Soak one-half cup of stale bread in one-half cup of hot sweet milk until the milk cools. Beat with a fork, then add the grated rind of one-half large orange and the juice of the whole orange. Stir in one well-beaten egg and sweeten with three tablespoons of granulated sugar. Turn the mixture into small greased custard cups set in a pan of hot water, and slip all into a moderate oven to bake for 40 minutes—or until the little individual puddings are firm in the center. Serve hot or cold. This recipe must be doubled for more than two persons.

FAITH BIG PUNCH
IN DOBSONSON PLAY

Crippled Vet Sees 'Manna' And Is Cured By Its Dramatic Lesson

John Ocher, of Los Angeles, went overseas during the World War. A bullet nicked his spine and he was carried on a stretcher to the nearest hospital. After months of treatment he was sent to the United States, still on a stretcher. The doctors broke it to him as gently as possible that he was hopelessly paralyzed and would never walk again.

"Manna," the play now entering its third week at Glendale Playhouse, was written by Olga Prizla of Hollywood, and was first put on by the Potboilers in June, 1924. One day they gave a complimentary performance at the Soldiers' Home in Sawtelle. In the audience in his wheel chair, much like "Peter Linden" in the play, sat John Ocher.

To none had that play a more inspiring message than to John Ocher. He sat with his heart in his eyes until the end—absorbed and enthralled. When it was over he said to the comrades who wheeled him away: "That fellow got up and walked. If he can do it, I can."

Faith Cures Him
The friend feared that Ocher would injure himself by unwise attempts at the impossible, and said: "Aw, I wouldn't do anything foolish, Jack. You know that's only a play, after all."

"If he could do it I can, play or no play," stubbornly responded the crippled boy. "I'm going to have faith, and I'm going to do it."

In August, less than ninety days later, Ocher left his wheel chair and walked. He is walking today. He was at the Dobsonson Players' performance of "Barnum Was Right," and is coming out this week to see "Manna" again.

Ocher is a friend of Charles O'Malley, the soldier who plays "Goofie" in "Manna," and when he comes he will be introduced to the audience from the stage. Surely, no greater proof of the power of faith could be asked.

"Manna" is away to a flying start for its third week. Saturday afternoon's audience was the biggest matinee attendance in the history of the Dobsonson Players. And people did not wait for Easter to raise the ban of the church, for Saturday night's audience filled the house to the door.

Good, Clean Laughs
"Manna" is good entertainment because it is good "theatre." It is filled with meat. There is a good, sound structure, and dozens of laughs which grow naturally out of the situations. There is no straining for effect, no dragging in of cheap and flippant lines to persuade the audience to indulge in mirth.

Such manifestations are not desired by shrewd showmen. They call laughs which are secured by flippant lines and not by the integral humor of the situations as "cheap laughs," and believe that in the long run they do more harm than good.

There isn't a cheap laugh in "Manna," but lots of good wholesome ones—to say nothing of numerous thrills and even a tear or two.

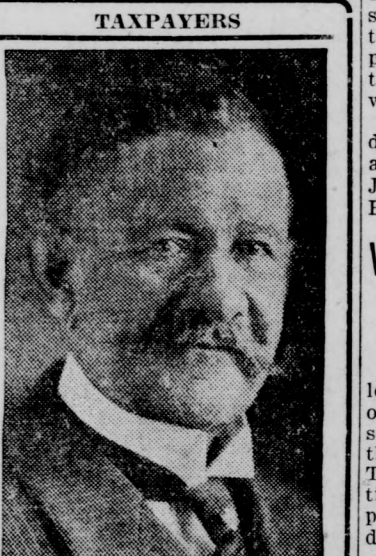

PAROLE DENIED

SACRAMENTO, April 13.—Zolie Clements, who was captured here in 1912 after a campaign of banditry extending over a decade and reaching into every state of the coast, was denied a parole by the state board of prison directors. Clements, who confessed slaying three men during his career of crime, committed more than fifty daring holdups in Northern California, Oregon and Washington county for three years and for eight years manager of a national bank in North Dakota.

DOROTHY HAPPY

NAPA, Cal., April 13.—Apparently happier than she has been for weeks, Dorothy Ellingson, 17-year-old matricide, declared insane, went about adjusting herself to life in the state hospital here today. No extensive examinations of the girl have been made yet, but according to hospital authorities she is co-operating fully. She will be permitted to rest principally during her thirty-day probationary period.

Cairo Cafe

Priscilla Dean in exciting film now showing at Glendale Theatre; story is highly intriguing and alluring.

The Oriental is the ideal background for colorful photodramas. Some of the greatest successes of recent years have been stories of the east, notably "The Thief of Bagdad," "The Sheik" and "The Virgin of Stamboul."

"A Cafe in Cairo" showing at the Glendale theatre until tomorrow night, and which stars the inimitable Priscilla Dean in one of her characteristic roles, is a pulsating drama of the mystic land of the Nile, and the spirit of adventure and romance is as strong today as in that olden time when Cleopatra wove her magic spell.

This is a story that intrigues and fascinates. A young American on a secret diplomatic mission, lured by the entrancing beauty of Naida, the fascinating Hourri, sinuous dancing girls in the House of the Stars; the rhythmic haunting melodies of native instruments mingling with the swish of the diaphanous garments of Oriental courtesans; moonlight and the lure of the desert.

Such is the setting of "A Cafe in Cairo." The screen version was made by Harvey Gates from the novel by Izola Forrester, who wrote "The White Moth."

In conjunction with "A Cafe in Cairo," the Sutherland Saxophone Six is also appearing at the Glendale theatre. This troupe of musicians is an offspring of the famous Tom Brown Saxophone Revue. All the members of this vaudeville presentation were members of Tom Brown's show and are lately arranged in their own present vaudeville vehicle. They are billed the Sutherland Saxophone Six with Travis and Hart in "A Musical and Dancing Melange."

OROVILLE, April 13.—Alienists from the Stockton state hospital, and possibly other state institutions, will be called to conduct the sanity examination of Mrs. Anna L. Rhodes, and her husband, Edward Rhodes, leaders of the Butte county fire cult, it was announced today by the district attorney's office.

If the "roaring lion of the tribe of Judah" and her husband are found sane, District Attorney William E. Rothe said that they will again be charged with criminal assault upon Herman Schalow, Gridley rancher, who died following branding rites presided over by Mrs. Rhodes.

Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Young of 400 North Kenwood street went by aeroplane yesterday to Los Seranos Country club, making the trip of forty-eight miles in thirty minutes. It was Dr. Young's first trip to the club. He reported he found no difficulty in making a perfect landing in an alfalfa field 100 yards from the clubhouse. He states that the next trip he makes to Los Seranos will be in his five-passenger plane. The club is contemplating an aviation landing with hangars and lighted tower.

GATEWAY BOASTS
OLDTIME COMEDY

'Charley's Aunt' Screened First Time Is Called Mother Of Farces

It is a strange thing but true that "Charley's Aunt," the play which has been going continuously for thirty-three years on the stage, has never had a star, and the film presenting Syd Chaplin, which plays today and tomorrow at the Gateway theatre, is the first time the piece has ever been done with a star in the title role.

"Charley's Aunt" has been played in England with 166 different "Charleys" and, according to Mrs. Brandon Thomas, wife of the author, who now controls the enormous estate which the play has built up, every one of the Charleys has been good.

"Charley's Aunt," according to the producers, is an actor-proof play. By that is meant that it is funny, no matter how badly it is played. This is not said to discredit any of those who appear in the picture, because, from all reports, every member of the cast does excellent work.

The reason that "Charley's Aunt" was never advertised with a star is probably due to the fact that it has generally been a stock company play in America.

"Charley's Aunt" may be said to be the "mother" of all farce comedies on the stage and screen. It is the real old-time which has stood the test of many years of playing. The picture is promised as a real treat. Advance reports credit it with being the biggest laughing success yet made in pictures with hearty explosions of glee "longer and louder" than usual.

RUTH KERN
CANDIDATE FOR City Treasurer

To the voters of Glendale:—

On April 14 you will select from among the candidates for office those whom you think will serve you best. I have served the citizens of Glendale for the past four years as Deputy Treasurer and always to the extent of my ability and with the utmost courtesy.

As to my ability to handle the finances of the City, I can refer you to every Bank in Glendale; their endorsement has been published. The Treasurer's office involves much more than the careful handling of money and, in this respect, I have received the endorsement of former City officials such as Judge Hartley Shaw, Dwight Stephenson, of C. A. Rudel, tax expert, and other prominent men of Glendale whom you know. Mr. Sherer, retiring City Treasurer, has given me his unqualified endorsement. He has said, "The position is of growing importance and I should not recommend Miss Kern if I did not believe that she is big enough for the office."

MANCHESTER, Eng., April 13.—For years Lancashire men have been mill workers. Now the younger generation is shunning the mills, and there is fear that there will be a shortage of these workers. An investigation has been started to discover means whereby mill work can be made more attractive.

STRAWBERRIES

HAMMOND, La., April 13.—Shipment of strawberries from this district is now in progress in this load lots. One train which started this week was valued at $200,000. Prices continue high, ranging from $4.75 to $5.32 per crate of 24 pints. The crop already sold has brought over $1,000,000 to producers.

Voters—Attention

It is with a great deal of pleasure that we recommend to the voters of Glendale the candidacy of Mr. M. E. Plasterer for Treasurer of the City of Glendale.

Mr. Plasterer's steady advancement with the Pennsylvania Railroad is proof of his ability as an accountant.

Moving to Glendale 14 years ago, when he built a home on North Kenwood St., he and his family have identified themselves in the growth of the city by actively participating in all civic interests, giving time, effort and money to all movements for the good of their home town.

Mr. S. F. Seager, whose letter has appeared in the Glendale papers, commends Mr. Plasterer very highly on his connection with the Olds Motor Works Factory Branch and its successors in Los Angeles from 1912 to 1920, the last seven years as Secretary and Treasurer.

We who have known Mr. Plasterer for many years realize his fine character, his integrity and his responsibility in any position of trust, and urge the citizens of Glendale to support him at the election on April 14th.

Friends Of Candidate Set
Forth Qualifications
As Treasurer

Editor, The Evening News:—
W. G. Loftus, having presented himself as a candidate for city treasurer, at the request of his many friends who feel that his qualifications, experience, honesty and integrity entitle him to the favorable consideration and election to the office of city treasurer, we feel that he is worthy of the support of the voters of Glendale.

Mr. Loftus is a college graduate and has taken post graduate work at Stanford university. He is a graduate in accountancy from the Accountants' Educational Institute of Los Angeles. He was assistant cashier of the Raritan Union bank, in Illinois, and later, upon coming to Los Angeles, was for four years treasurer of a building and subdivision company. After this he transferred his interests to the Imperial valley. Upon becoming established in the valley, Mr. Loftus plunged into the irrigation problems which he found there and soon made himself one of the best-informed men on irrigation methods in the valley. He was also instrumental in the formation of the farm bureau, of which he was later president, and was always very active in the schools and other matters of interest to the valley.

When the federal government passed the Farm Loan act, Mr. Loftus organized the ranchers into a Federal Farm Loan association and secured one of the first charters issued in the United States for such an association. He was elected secretary-treasurer of that association, which office he filled until he resigned upon leaving the valley. Since returning to Glendale, Mr. Loftus was assistant quartermaster of the Harvard Military academy for two years, at the close of which time he resigned to conduct an electrical business which he owned in Los Angeles.

Letters From Valley

We feel that Mr. Loftus has all the qualifications required to fill the office. Mr. Loftus is a married man with a family, is one of our honorable citizens and is interested in the highest type of development of our city. We feel that such a man, in consideration of his qualifications, should be given favorable consideration.

We have in our hands personal letters which were written to Mr. Loftus by business and professional men of Imperial valley when they learned that he was leaving the valley, and will quote from two of these as follows:

"Mr. Loftus, I am sorry indeed that you have left the valley, because I have a very strong feeling that your type of men is what the valley needs to give it a substantial standing. So I feel not only a personal loss, but a loss for the valley, in your moving away." This letter is signed by Dr. A. E. Elliott of El Centro.

"I have noticed a great many very fine newspaper articles mentioning your departure from the valley, and you seem to have a great many friends, all of them sorry to see you leave, and I must say I am bitterly disappointed, as I know we could have done much more good work for the valley had you remained here." This is from a business letter written to Dr. Loftus by Ingram T. Sparks, commercial agent of the Southern Pacific Co.

Voters of Glendale will make no mistake in voting for Mr. Loftus. His friends invite your support.

Tells of Damage

Stories of the devastation by the recent tornado that swept over Illinois, Missouri and Indiana have only partially portrayed the horror, the wrecked homes and industries, according to a communication received today from George S. Rolens, 655 West Wilson avenue, Glendale, who is visiting Murphysboro at the present time. Rolens owns property in that city, some of which was damaged by the storm. His letter follows:—
Editor The Evening News:—In keeping with your request I will write you briefly of the stricken city of my birth, as I have viewed it since my arrival here last Wednesday morning.

Not Exaggerated
"Let me say in the beginning that the press accounts of the devastation of the tornado that swept through southern Missouri, Illinois and Indiana have not been exaggerated. In fact no account of the storm in the newspapers I have seen has even partially portrayed the horror, the wrecked homes and industries that I found upon my arrival here. The miracle is that so few were killed—the death list totaled less than 220—when literally more than a thousand homes in this city were reduced to kindling wood, two grade schools, with more than four hundred children in each were reduced to mere piles of brick and mortar, and the assembly room of the township high school and the

Defendants Allowed Bail Pending Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—
Pending appeal of their sentence to federal prison for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law growing out of the seizure of the rum runner Quadra with a million dollar booze cargo, five defendants have been released on a total bail of $85,000.

They were Charles Belanger, director, Consolidated Exporters Co., Vancouver, B. C., owners of the Quadra; Captain George Ford, skipper; Vincent Quaratero, local representative of the company, and George Harris and James Evelyn, mates.

Defense attorneys, in their appeal from the conviction, contend that the government has no right to seize a foreign vessel on the high seas and that the Quadra was outside the 12-mile limit when seized.

Houses Demolished
"The cyclone entered the city at Riverside park taking the keeper's house as its first toll, and swept wedge-like through the finest residential section, taking homes of brick and stone as completely as it did the less sturdy frames of the wealthy, then swept on through a two mile area, completely wiping out an addition composed of the more modest homes of railway shopmen and then on through the north residential section and coming out in the town of smaller homes of Italians and poorer coal miners.

"The homes of the farmers in its path as well as two smaller towns of the county were completely wiped out. While the addition of this city which I once owned was not directly in the storm's path yet many residences in this section were wrecked and the property that I still retain was more or less damaged. Without having seen this city in all its beauty on a spring day with its hundreds of pretty cottages and fine shade trees no one can visualize the destruction. Pictures cannot portray nor words convey it.

"But the spirit of the people here is wonderful. Already rebuilding is going on, day after day the newspaper carries a column of those who are rebuilding better than ever or who plan to rebuild as soon as possible. The Red Cross is in charge of the relief work.

TELEGRAMS TELL TRAXLER ABILITY

Church Workers' Messages
Attest To Character
Of Candidate

Attesting to the character and ability of Dr. Paul S. Traxler, candidate for City Council, are two telegrams received in Glendale today from well-known figures in the Christian church, of which Dr. Traxler is a member. The telegrams come from Rev. J. H. O. Smith, pastor of the First Christian church at Okmulgee, Okla., and from Charles R. Scoville, Christian church evangelist, who has many friends throughout California, and who is now at Miami, Fla.

The telegram from Rev. Smith follows: "Paul S. Traxler will fill conscientiously and with ability any position he may accept. Have known him and his family for years."

This message was received from Evangelist Scoville: "Just heard that you are running for alderman in Glendale. Having known your father and mother since 1901 and yourself and your sister from your childhood, I am free to say there is no better blood than the Traxler family has and I am dead sure if elected you would do the right as you would see it and as your worthy mother and father before you would have done. Mrs. Scoville and I wish you and yours unlimited success always."

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Construction of viaducts over the Southern Pacific in Glendale where main traffic arteries cross the busy tracks of the iron trail to the north,—that seems a logical plan.

Most viaducts are crude, however, and they despoil property adjacent thereto. Yet there are some which are architectural beauties.

Either Glendale should have the latter, or it should tunnel under the railroads for its boulevard passages.

Tunnels are not desirable, of course. But they are better than a gawky span of steel.

Don't bet any money on the gasoline tax increase passing. That's the advice of one of the oil companies' experts at Sacramento.

For the present, however, stock in Senator Arthur H. Breed's highway financing scheme has taken a jump. It is riding at par in the Senate.

If the Alameda county senator succeeds in getting another cent for the new construction of roads, it is very probable the oil companies will ask for a referendum.

Just why the oil companies are willing to spend vast sums to defeat the gas tax, as is evidenced by their lobbyists, who are particularly anxious about the subject matter appearing in the newspapers, leaves one to wonder if they are not intending to raise the price of gasoline themselves.

On the other hand California's Legislature seems to be outdoing itself in raising tax money. The gasoline tax increase would bring in about twenty million more a year. The oleomargarine tax of 2 cents a pound will net more than a million, the fish and game taxes, motor weight taxes and various licenses will go down to the governor's office for signature. If he signs all of these measures the biennial revenues of the state will be far over $200,000,000.

That doesn't sound like economy, particularly when the new taxes are levied against the motorist, the poor people using margarine substitutes for butter, and those seeking cheap freight carriers in motor transport.

And on top of this the farmers desire a tax on publicly owned public utilities which would bring the state another $15,000,000 every two years. Of course, such an attack on public ownership is doomed to fail, despite the evident justice in the contention that cities should share alike with smaller communities in bearing the burden of state taxation.

Candidate For City Council
Is Head Of Building
Firm In Glendale

S. S. Beran, candidate for city councilman, has been a resident of Glendale since 1921. He has devoted many years to designing and building structures, and is head of the firm which bears his name, with offices at 213 1/2 South Brand boulevard. He is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Methodist Episcopal church, and the Glendale Lions' club, of which he is a charter member.

He was born in New York City on October 9, 1887, and was educated in the public schools there. After seven years at Passaic, N. J., he became connected with a construction firm at San Francisco in 1906. In 1909 he became a civil service employee at Sacramento under Governor Johnson, and in 1910 he went to Honolulu as an employee in the construction department of the Hawaiian Islands. Upon his return to the United States he located at St. Lake City, later going to Portland, and from Portland to Fresno.

Mr. Beran came to Los Angeles county in 1915 and supervised warehouse construction at the harbor. During the war he was cantonment inspector in California. When the war ended he founded a business in Long Beach, coming to Glendale two years later.

He advocates building up the business streets Glendale now has, and not zoning any more residential property for business. He is in favor of establishing setback lines on all residential streets sixty-five feet from the center of the street, and advocates more industries on the west side.

Christian Endeavorers Hold Easter Meeting

The Easter spirit was evident at the meeting last night of the senior intermediate C. E. society of the Presbyterian church. The Christian Endeavor hall of the church was decorated with Easter lilies. The theme of the meeting was "What Does the Resurrection of Jesus Mean?" Mildred Cooy was leader.

A tableau was presented, showing the tomb on the resurrection morn. The scene showed the women and the apostles at the sepulchre, their fears at finding Jesus gone, the appearance of the angel, and his message to them.

Two musical numbers, "The Rosary," sung by Miss Dorothy Schenck, and a violin solo, "Adoration," by Miss Mary Anne Fleming, were rendered. Margaret Jones accompanied.

The prayer meeting department will meet tonight at the home of Mildred Sooy, 658 West California. Members of the society will visit the Los Angeles General hospital next Sunday. Interest is being aroused in Christian Endeavor circles for the county C. E. convention, soon to be staged at Pasadena. A large number of the members of the organization are planning to attend.

DON'T BE MISLED

VOTE FOR DAVIS TOMORROW

April 10, 1925.

Mr. A. T. Cowan,
Prop. of Glendale Evening News,
Glendale, California.

Dear Mr. Cowan:

You will remember that during the Sewer Bond Campaign I was chairman of the Publicity Committee and for that reason was intensely interested in the carrying out of the promises and agreements of the City Council and the successful construction of our sewer.

The Sewer System is now well under way and all indications point to the fact that Glendale is going to have one of the finest sewer systems in this county at a very low initial expense and the City Council has assured me that the expense will be lower than estimated, which will mean that about $125,000.00 of the original bond issue will not be required.

City Councilman Sam Davis and a candidate for re-election, was the big gun behind the sewer campaign. It was through months of effort on his part with the City Council of Los Angeles, the City and County Engineers and legal advisers to the City of Glendale, that a contract very advantageous to this City was drawn up and which allowed the construction of an outfall sewer to carry off the sewage from the City of Glendale.

It is hard for the public to conceive the tremendous amount of work that it required on the part of Councilman Sam Davis to successfully bring about this contract, which provided our only possible outlet for a sewerage system from this city.

After the signing of the contract, he spent weeks in untiring effort to get over a bond issue for the sewer. The need of the sewer was very evident and was recognized by the citizens of Glendale when the bonds carried ten to one. This indicates to the public the interest that Sam Davis has in the welfare of this City and proper recognition can best be given him by the public's support of his re-election.

TAXPAYER MAY BE U.S. STOCKHOLDER

Congressman Madden Has Plans for Rebate of Excess Revenue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—How would you like to become a stockholder in the United States government—and if conditions permit receive a dividend every year?

This, in effect, is the plan laid before President Coolidge by Representative Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, as chairman of the House appropriation committee. It works this way:

Congress appropriates the amount that shall be spent annually and at the same time fixes the rates of taxation. When the income exceeds the outgo for any year the treasury would be authorized to determine exactly what proportion the surplus bears to the amounts collected and each taxpayer would receive a rebate for that particular percentage as applied to his own taxes. Thus, if the annual saving amounted to 25 per cent, this proportion would be applied to the amounts paid.

Plan Explained

Every taxpayer would be interested under this scheme in seeing that expenses were held down to a minimum for if no money was saved there would be no rebate. The budget system was designated to prevent expenditures from exceeding income. Mr. Madden's plan would compel further economy so that the entire amount provided for in the budget would not be spent.

There is reason to believe the idea is favorably looked upon by both the president and the secretary of the treasury. It will be pushed in the next session of Congress.

Under the Madden plan, the rates of taxation would remain the same unless Congress wished to make a general revision at any time. In fact a revision is expected to be made in the next Congress anyhow and the Madden proposal would simply be attached to it and would be effective whenever there was a surplus.

City Takes Up Matter Of Road Improvement

Indicating that the city of Glendale can adopt a resolution of intention for improvement of San Fernando road within the city limits within the next few weeks, the county road commissioner will confer with City Manager V. B. Stone this week regarding the policy of expenditure of $60,000 appropriated by the county for the purpose.

County Supervisor Henry Wright has asked the road commissioner to cooperate with Stone, the former says in a letter received by the city manager today. The fund, a part of the motor vehicle tax obtained as Los Angeles county's share, was allocated to improvement of the highway within Glendale limits. An additional $100,000 has been appropriated by the county for improvement of San Fernando road within the Los Angeles city limits.

Plans and specifications for improvement of the road in Glendale have already been placed in the hands of the supervisors by Stone and City Engineer F. H. Johansen.

Laugh This Off

The nine pastors have convened and selected their slate of seven candidates for City Council, ruthlessly regardless of the feelings of the remaining fourteen candidates. If this action was taken, as the pastors say, after being "asked by hundreds of our constituency and by a large number of other voters," it would appear that the ignored fourteen candidates are indeed out of luck, the election is practically over, our local government has become strictly orthodox and Church and City are nicely merged. The "Elect" have been elected.

But I cannot help feeling that the ignored fourteen, who are respectable gentlemen, naturally jealous of their reputations and anxious for the goodwill of their neighbors, did not deserve this rather rough treatment at the hands of the affiliated pastors. As a gentle hint to those who may regard the golden rule as properly applicable in politics, I am taking the liberty of publishing the names of the unfortunate fourteen who, it is quite probable, may be more sinned against than sinning.

These are the "goats":

J. W. Usilton's Platform DEMANDS

*the Honest
Consideration of Every Voter*

"The citizens of Glendale have recently heard much concerning the subject of taxation and I realize that this is an opportune time to give the voters my brief opinion as to how the taxes can really be lowered.

"FIRST—The foundation of this all-important question is not the method of taxation; that matter is fixed by the laws of the state, and the question as to whether said method is good, bad or indifferent does not enter into the problem. The solution depends entirely upon the men and women who are elected to the legislative bodies of our local government, to-wit, county, school and city.

"SECOND—If elected to the Council I pledge to keep uppermost in my mind the fact that every dollar expended by the city would mean an additional tax of one dollar which the taxpayers will be called upon to pay each year; hence, having promised to vote for lower taxes, I would necessarily scrutinize every item before voting for the expenditure and assure myself that the city will receive in return for every dollar expended one hundred cents in value of service, labor or material.

"THIRD—It is an undisputed fact that in the past few years several million dollars have been expended for public work, which was levied by special assessments by the City Council against your property and my property, and while I firmly believe in a constructive program of necessary public work I am most emphatically opposed to any further improvements unless requested by a majority of the property owners affected by the assessment for the proposed improvement. That the petition must be a bona fide request of the property owners, circulated by them and not by a paid representative of some paving or material concern.

"FOURTH—Realizing that the present laws of the state in relation to special assessments provide how the proceedings shall be had for assessments of public works, and that said proceedings are, as a rule, complicated and not understood by the average taxpayer, I am in favor of giving the taxpayer the benefit of all publicity concerning said proposed improvements that can be given in addition to the requirements of the law.

"FIFTH—I am opposed to retaining in the service of the city any officer or employee who will either directly or indirectly use his position to further the interest of contractors of public work, and that if elected I promise to make a careful survey of this proposition, with a view to breaking up any so-called pools of contractors, all of which will aid greatly in the reduction of special assessments.

"SIXTH—I am opposed to the method of enforcing traffic laws for the purpose of securing revenue rather than for the safety of the public at large. I am in favor of a reasonable policy that will add to the dignity rather than ridicule the good name of our city.

"In conclusion, would state that I am not unmindful of the fact that many of the voters of Glendale are engaged in business or are employed in the city of Los Angeles, and that these voters have received very little consideration in the past. I promise that if elected I will vote in favor of open meetings to be held in the evening in order to give every voter an opportunity to attend."

High Praise for James Rhoades Prominent Glendale Men Endorse Candidate For City Councilman

Editor The Evening News—May we express to the voters of Glendale through the columns of your valuable paper some reasons why Jim Rhoades should be elected one of the five members of the City Council. In stating these reasons, we have no objections to any one of the other candidates as they are all sterling citizens, but as there are five to be elected, we believe for the following reasons Mr. Rhoades should be one of the five:

First—He has demonstrated his business ability in handling public affairs during the three years he served Glendale as secretary of our Chamber of Commerce.

Second—He has had experience in municipal affairs, having served as mayor of Missoula, Montana, where he rendered splendid service as mayor of that city from 1912 to 1914.

Third—He is a man that is not owned nor controlled by any individual company or corporation and is free to serve the vast interest of the whole people.

Fourth—He is a fearless fighter for right and is a man who can and will represent his constituency under any and all circumstances.

Fifth—He is an honest man and will deal honestly in all his dealings either public or private, and has placed before the people of Glendale letters of recommendation of his past life proving conclusively his integrity.

In the face of these facts which we submit to the voters, we believe Mr. Rhoades is qualified for your consideration and support.

DRIVER FOILS ATTEMPT TO ROB SAFE

Yeggs Frightened Away At Crescent Creamery; One
Charge Placed

Burglars who broke into the plant of the Crescent Creamery Co., San Fernando road and Colorado street, early yesterday morning, were frightened away, after they had drilled several holes in the door of the heavy safe, and one charge of nitroglycerin had been placed, Glendale police reported today.

Unexpected arrival at the plant of Carl Burkhardt, 447 West Twenty-seventh street, Los Angeles, a driver employed by the company, at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, is believed to have caused the cracksmen to flee. Lieutenant Nunn and Patrolman Larson rushed to the plant in a fast police car and searched nearby territory in a fruitless effort to capture the bandits. It is believed they escaped in an automobile.

Get Fingerprints
Detective Sergeant Williams of the Glendale force has been assigned to the case. He has obtained photographs of fingerprints appearing on the safe. The cracksmen are professionals, members of a gang that has been working extensively on the Pacific coast, he believes. Only their hurried departure prevented them from carefully removing from the safe front all traces of their identity.

Several hundred dollars and valuable papers were in the safe at the time of the attempted robbery.

MacBain Thanks His Friends For Support

In a statement issued this morning at "MacBain for Council Club" headquarters, Mr. MacBain extended his thanks and appreciation to his many friends for their support and encouragement during the present campaign. He said:

"I have made no pre-election promises to anyone either individually or collectively and neither have I pledged nor even inferred that I would return any favors for support to any organization that has included my name on their ticket. It naturally follows that having made no promises I have none to break.

"On the other hand, there is one promise that I freely and gladly make, and that is that if I am elected, I pledge myself to give fair and impartial consideration to everyone, regardless of creed or station in life and to administer to the best of my ability any of the affairs of this city that may come under my jurisdiction."

Speakers will include Peter Peterson, noted sportsman of the southwest; M. J. Isaacs of the Rainbow Trout ranch, fish culturist of wide reputation, and J. D. Hadley of the State Fish and Game commission.

DIRT TURNED FOR BAPTIST CHURCH

Easter Marks Start Of New

Easter was a memorable occasion for the congregation of First Baptist church of Glendale, as ground-breaking exercises for the new church were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the church site, corner of Wilson avenue and Louise street. RECORDS ORDERED IN SALE OF SHIPS

Shipping Board Asked To Show All Papers In
Dollar Line Deal

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Justice Hitz, in district supreme court, today issued an order compelling the United States shipping board to produce in court next Monday all its records, stenographic reports on discussions, memoranda and correspondence, relating to the sale of the five president-type ocean liners to the Dollar steamship interests.

The order requiring the board to produce its files and office records was served on Roy Merrill, secretary of the board.

Some interesting disclosures are expected if these records are permitted to become public. The shipping board split 4 and 3 on the sale, and some of the secret sessions at which the bids were discussed were enlivened by hot exchanges between the members.

Only Promises Made In Papers, Says Kinch

Editor The Evening News: I would like to make answer to your editorial, "Beware of Slates." If any person or combination of persons has decided to endorse or "slate" me, it has been done without my solicitation or knowledge, in every instance; and the only promises I have made are the ones published during the past week in both dailies, in my platform. I appreciate the endorsements given me.

The thought of distribution of "favors" or "patronage" has never entered my mind. My soul is not for sale and if any person in Glendale thinks he can buy or cajole me I don't want his support. I have not asked anyone to support me or to carry my banner or distribute my cards.

I stand ready to take oath to the above statements.

In entering the councilmanic campaign, I determined to make a clean run and spend as little money as possible to get my name and what I stand for before the public.

The many, many influential and thinking people who stand ready to endorse me over their names have not been given the opportunity because I decided (no doubt, unwisely) not to publish any endorsements.

Yours very truly,
S. C. KINCH.

Assistant Labor Secretary Is Slated For Place Left
By Bledsoe

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Coolidge has decided to appoint E. J. Henning, assistant secretary of labor, to the Southern California district judgeship, vacated by the resignation of Benjamin F. Bledsoe, administration leaders were told today.

Because of the length of time intervening before the appointment could be confirmed by the Senate, the president probably will delay formal announcement until shortly before next December, it was said. Henning recently took up his residence in San Diego.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney-general in charge of prohibition enforcement, has been prominently mentioned for the post since Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, submitted her name.

'HOT DOGS' CAUSE RUTH'S SICKNESS

Could Not Pass 'Greyhound Derby' Without Eating Ten or Twelve

By JOHN B. FOSTER
Special Correspondent for The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
NEW YORK, April 13.—Hot dogs have been an important contributing factor in the illness of Babe Ruth. A fellow member of the Yanks told the writer in Florida recently that he had seen Ruth eat half a dozen frankfurters andwiches in succession, topping off the lunch with a pint of solution of the bicarbonate of soda and then go out to the ball field and play.
Ruth has always been a big feeder at the table but it is probable what he has eaten between meals that has done him the most harm. Hot dogs have been his particular weakness whenever there was a "pup emporium" in sight.
No human being can disregard the rules of conditioning as Babe has done without paying the penalty. In Florida he would hang around a greyhound derby to late hours of the night when he should have been in bed getting his rest. His weight has been so high all spring that playing ball has been an actual menace to him because of the strain on his heart.
Stomach Trouble
Ruth's spells of dizziness undoubtedly have proceeded from a disordered stomach which affected the circulation of his blood. Traveling through the south and especially from hotel to hotel would tend to aggravate any stomach disorder he might have incurred while he was taking his annual spring course of baths at Hot Springs.
After he left the springs for Florida the Babe should have taken great care of himself, especially as the weather was so hot and languid.
Conditions really were of the best for training if Ruth had only regarded his health a little more and pampered his appetite a little less.

Adds Weight Fast
About a year ago the writer suggested that Ruth had the fight of his athletic existence ahead of him. Nature had begun to show that it meant to put flesh on him and plenty of it. Susceptible to attacks of the "flu" he never has attempted to reduce without being overtaken by one and this year his constitution had his appetite to fight in addition to the flu.
A man of Ruth's type has no chance to remain successfully in baseball without exercising caution, both winter and summer, as regards his diet. This spring the Babe has tried to run and hence over the ball field like a boy with an overweighted body and overloaded stomach. His whole system has been paying the freight.

SPORT CHATTER

By GLENN COLLETT
America's Greatest Woman Golfer
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
(Written on the eve of her departure for Troon, Scotland, where she will appear as America's only contender for the British women's open golf championship.)

RYE, N. Y., April 13.—The lucky dime John D. Rockefeller gave me is going right along to bring me luck in the British open championship match in Scotland. It's on a chain now, so I can wear it on my wrist. I rather believe in lucky charms. They give one confidence.

Because the only English girl I have met so far in a golf belt is Cecil Leitch, one of the finest sportswomen I have known, I'm looking forward to playing in England with unusual eagerness. I don't know when a trip has appeared to me so.

I'd like to go into the French and Belgian open championship matches while I'm over there, and perhaps I shall. The dime makes me feel so much braver.

I'm sorry I'm the only American girl to go, because a group of us could have a rioting good time, and because if there were several, there would be a so much better opportunity to show the English, who don't know, what golf has come to be in America.

Of course, I'm as fit as can be. I've been practicing with a vengeance on southern courses all winter and am playing, I think, a better game than I've ever played before. But then one hates to count too much on one's self.

I took a lesson from Alex Smith here at the Westchester-Biltmore club Thursday, and he says his hopes are high for me. I'd been feeling a little off form a day or two in my play in Providence, but Alex Smith said my drives had picked up to snuff. I think I've improved my putting a little too. It's been more steady this winter and I believe I'm playing evenly enough not to need to be really afraid of any particular part of my game.

I should say I've been playing around 80 on the American courses. But the English links may pull me down. They say the course at Troon, Scotland, on the sea, where the championship will be held, is so likely to be windblown that it may offer unusual hazards to one not accustomed to it.

I must say I hope not, for I'd like to hold up, and if possible raise the rating Alexa Stirling and the others who have played in the British championship so far, have made.

Then, too, there's always a little incentive in knowing that the women's title is the only one no American has ever lifted. I wish I knew more about the men who are going over—it would be corking if we could bring home a lot of bacon.

Babe Ruth Will Not See Opening Contest

NEW YORK, April 13.—Babe Ruth's pleas to be allowed to view the local opening of the American league season were denied today by physicians at St. Vincent's hospital where the noted slugger has been confined since his collapse. Dr. Edward King, the club's physician, reported the Babe's condition to be greatly improved, but added that he must remain in bed for at least three or four days longer. Mrs. Ruth also vetoed the Babe's plan to "take in the game as a fan."

Fans, how are you at picking winners? Personally, I'm not so good at it. I make this statement partly because it's the truth and partly so that you won't develop a faint heart at this proposition.
Here's the idea:
I've looked over the big league ball clubs during their spring training. Have talked with the managers and the men expected to play important roles in the coming championship races.
I've weighed the prospects of each team carefully—studied their losses and their gains. And I have come to certain conclusions regarding the probable outcome of the two pennant races.
I have set forth these conclusions and given, in brief form, my reasons.

You've been reading reams of "copy" on these clubs and players since the training season started. You have formed your own opinions.
Now let's get a little mutual enjoyment out of it all.
On this page are printed the outcomes of both the big league races this year as I dope them. In the charts room has been left for you to write your own guess—for it's mainly a guess.

Take a flier with me. Write in below each of my selections the name of the team you think will finish in each given position. Then save the lists.

You'll have a lot of sport looking at both guesses as the teams jockey about during the campaign and when the race is won.
And here's hoping you're better guessers than I am.

HEAVYWEIGHTS AT VERNON TUESDAY

Godfrey and Sam Baker in Main Event; Owens and Manley To Appear

Once more heavyweights are to occupy the spotlight at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena when Sam Baker and George Godfrey clash in the main event tomorrow night. Baker has won seventeen fights by knockouts in the first round, and Godfrey's manager is claiming the championship title Dempsey has pushed aside. The main event is scheduled for ten rounds, but has every indication of ending before the full number of frames has been counted off.

The semi-windup of six rounds is sure to produce a lot of thrills for the ring worms, for Ernie Owens and George Manley are booked for the amusement spot. Owens has been going great the last few months, while Manley has a long list of victories behind him. Manley got his start around Denver, where "Soakum" Yoakum, the club's physician, reported the Babe's condition to be greatly improved, but added that he must remain in bed for at least three or four days longer. Mrs. Ruth also vetoed the Babe's plan to "take in the game as a fan."

Berlenbach May Meet McTigue In Milk Bout

NEW YORK, April 13.—Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, is expected to sign today to meet Paul Berlenbach in defense of the title in the feature bout of the annual milk fund show. Other proposed matches on the all-star card would bring together Young Strubling and Jimmy Slattery in a six rounder and Jack Delaney and Ad Stone in a twelve round contest. McTigue is reported as willing to accept a guarantee of $50,000 for his share of the purse.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.
(In this dispatch John B. Foster presents his annual "round up" of the teams of the American league, based on his long experience as an observer of the springtime form of baseball clubs. He has seen them all play in training, and he tells how they should perform in the season just ahead.)

NEW YORK, April 13.—A few days ago it was a race for the pennant among seven teams of the American league. Then the Philadelphia Athletics lost Hauser and there were left but six. If Babe Ruth should be lost to the Yanks for a part, or all of the season, there would still be six—may be.

The writer is making no predictions as to which team will win the pennant, but he will start the list with Detroit, which with luck and suitable steering, has a better chance to win this year than in any season in the past. The Tigers have an outfield that wallops an infield that is not as strong as either that of New York, or Washington infielding, though it will hit a lot, two clever catchers and probably better pitchers than Detroit has had in four seasons. It is a resourceful team with a kick and a comeback.

Washington is sorely in need of a right hand punch. It has left hand punch enough. Harris may introduce enough right hand punch to carry the team along and if he does he should drop himself in the batting order. The team gets too many runners on without scoring.

The Senators' infield is the speediest in the league. The combination at short and second has no equal in baseball. The regular catcher will be better if he could hit harder. The pitchers are surely as good as last year and Gregg, a forty year old veteran, seemingly is the best of any of them.

The New York Yanks have a ripping good infield working on all cylinders, covering a lot of ground, with a first baseman who seems better than he ever has been. The outfield speaks for itself provided Ruth is able to give his usual service, although even he is not as dangerous a batter as he was three years ago.

Combs, the kid who has replaced Witt in centerfield, promises much. His greatest weakness is the ball that bends. The team has average catching to assist a pitching corps which has been strengthened by the addition of the best pitcher in the American league, it is Shocker. If he is at his best and the others maintain their best individual records, the Yanks cannot lose. The team is well handled by a skillful manager.

The Chicago White Sox, revived, reinvigorated and re-everything under the leadership of Eddie Collins, are likely to swing into the first division and once there, look out. The team has a capital outfield, a smashing infield, except perhaps at shortstop, it is strong behind the bat and merely wants a little pitching to keep it elevated.

Cleveland is the team with the big stick. Whenever there is a game to be won by clouting and the Indians are nearby they will annihilate all opposition. It has an outfield of strength, an infield of uncertainty, good catchers and pitchers who are strong physically.

St. Louis is not ready. The team has been without a second baseman all the training season and also without its regular center fielder. The infield is not reliable and the outfield not up to the standard of other outfields. The Browns are strong back of the plate and not sure in pitching.

The Athletics had a chance to win the championship until Hauser was hurt. The team was well equipped in every way until this disaster overtook it. But to win the Athletics needed every ounce of strength they could mass on their infield and Hauser was the major part of their strength. The race this year is likely to be too close to permit any team to stand such a loss.

Eight on the list and possibly eighth in the race, Boston has a team that might have been good enough in other years to fight its way into the first division. But this year with such strength heaped against it, the Red Sox must fight to make an impressive showing in the second division.

Food is a subject that fills volumes, but perfect health can be maintained on a few simple menus of fresh and dried fruits, vegetables, nuts, whole wheat bread, milk and cheese.

Milk, if sipped slowly, can be taken with fresh or dried fruits alone, but fruit, vegetables and milk do not harmonize very well. Milk and vegetables mix well without the fruit. Cooked fruit or fruit that has been mixed with sugar does not always mix well with milk. Whole grains, whether in bread or mushes, mix well with milk, but no fruit should be eaten with starches such as grains and potatoes. A baked potato and a glass of whole milk, with a little butter on the potato is a good combination and nothing else is needed.

Carrots, celery and lettuce are three vegetables that may be mixed with fruits or starches and as they are the most common vegetables, they are economical as well as beneficial to use. A higher degree of health can be maintained on a simple diet than on a complicated one, but, too many articles of food at one meal.

I know one experimenter who has maintained unusual health and normal weight for the last seven years during which time he has taken no breakfasts and his noon day lunch has been one quart of unpasteurized milk sipped very slowly and masticated well. His evening meals alternate from fruits one day, vegetables the next and such combinations that carrots, celery, lettuce and whole grain breads mix with. He is careful not to mix more than two or three kinds of food together at one meal. His endurance seems to be unlimited on hikes, runs, rowing a boat, swimming or juggling ball bells that weigh a couple of hundred pounds apiece. His blood stream was so pure that vaccination failed to take after three attempts of army doctors to vaccinate him. He even picked up a soldier weighing one hundred and fifty pounds and put him up overhead at arms length with the arm they vaccinated, the succeeding days of the vaccinations, and it didn't even give him a sore muscle.

MERCHANTS BEAT PASADENA, 11-5

Bacom Starts Slugfest With Homer In Sixth; Two Score On Bunt

The Glendale Merchants won their second game in two starts yesterday when they walloped the Pasadena Pains 11 to 5 at the local ball park. Manager M. R. Bacom started the slugfest for the locals in the fourth inning when he tied the score, 1-1, with a home-run over right field fence, followed by a triple by Parsons. The Merchants gathered twenty-two hits off three Pasadena pitchers. Conkwright started the game for the locals and fanned eleven in the six innings he worked. With the game on ice, Manager Bacom, put in his second string, and McClure did the hurling, gathering four strikeouts.

In the sixth inning Manager Bacom scored Harding and Nobles on a squeeze play. Harding was on third and Nobles on second when Bacom laid down a perfect bunt. Bacom used his team which he will take east, starting May 3, for the first six innings. After that he worked players who will make up the team while he is traveling.

GIBBONS TO MEET JACK HERE, RUMOR

Arrangements Await Final Action On Split; May Fight In L. A.

NEW YORK, April 13.—Jack Dempsey, the well-known husband, will take part in one more public altercation before retiring permanently to a life of ease and refinement, the locale being California, probably Los Angeles; the time, September, and the party of the unfortunate second part, Tom Gibbons. Harry Wills is out like an ex-window. So is New York as the scene of the occasion, if that is the case. The entire program is contingent on whether Dempsey decides to step out for one more shot at the big money.

That is the situation as it exists today. Word has reached the east that the champion has been approached with tentative plans to box Gibbons in California, and has lent a willing ear. Nothing, however, can be definitely decided until the Dempsey-Kearns situation is cleared up.

Kearns may or may not be the champion's manager when the fight takes place, a showdown on this question being imminent. It will be strictly financial, according to the best advice. Dempsey, they say, no longer is willing to split fifty-fifty with Kearns and will not fight at all if anyone tries to force this angle of the situation on him.

Detour for Wills
Just why the champion refuses to do business with Wills is a matter upon which he has not committed himself. One guess is as good as another, and mine is that Dempsey, out of the ring for nearly two years, regards the colored man as too tough to take on without getting at least one start out of his system. As it is virtually certain that he will fight only once, if then, Wills will get the wide detour again.

Since the New York State Athletic commission has accepted Wills' challenge, and Dempsey has not seen fit to accept it, a Dempsey-Gibbons match is barred here automatically. The most natural spot, therefore, is California, and in due time Gibbons will come forward as the challenger there.

Ineligible List
For several reasons he cannot do so at this time. One of them is that he has not been made an offer as yet. Another is that he has several bouts in prospect, here, notable among which is his scheduled meeting with Gene Tunney, and wants to harvest his eastern crop before turning to the west.

Once he accepts or even negotiates publicly for a Dempsey shot, Gibbons will be placed on the ineligible list here. He is fully aware of this fact, and is willing to take the consequences—and the dollars that go with them.

A Voice From Burbank to Glendale Friends

By Harry M. Miller

A resident of Glendale for 20 years and former justice of the peace of Burbank township. Residing now at 180 S. Valencia avenue, Burbank. I love Glendale and will come back to Glendale as soon as I can sell my property. I also own property in Glendale and I get the good Glendale Evening News delivered at Burbank each evening. My dear friends, it is gratifying to me to know that a man of the capability and character of John W. Usilton is willing to give his time and experience to the people of Glendale as city trustee. John W. Usilton was instrumental in forming the Glendale Improvement association years ago, of which he was elected president, and I have never seen a more constructive administration in all my time. John Usilton always gave his best efforts to all worthy public improvements. At the time the Pacific Electric closed the street crossings at Lomita and Elk avenues, the City Council held a meeting with the State Railroad commission at the City Hall, the State Railroad commission at that meeting denied the request of opening of these two streets. This was a sad blow to the Glendale people. John W. Usilton never did stop working on this project until these two crossings were opened to the public. John Usilton had a private interview with Hiram Johnson, our then governor of the State, the governor had the commission reopen the hearing and the two streets were opened two weeks thereafter. I have known John W. Usilton for 14 years in Glendale. I know him as a successful business man, formerly a newspaper editor and now a realtor of Glendale, and an extensive property owner of your city. I know John W. Usilton does not enter this Council race for any mercenary purposes; he has made a success in life and will give his time and ability to the public. John W. Usilton knows how taxes can be reduced. Did you read his letter to Mr. Stephen C. Packer on April 10th, in the Glendale Evening News? If not, read it, and that is the only way taxes can be reduced. John W. Usilton is an honest, clean-living, cool-headed man; he is no weakling; he will fight for your rights, and will not violate your trust placed in him if he is elected city trustee. My dear friends, give John W. Usilton your support tomorrow. I am very proud of our police and fire departments—they are second to none, and I hope no change will be made there. I am writing this letter unbeknown to John W. Usilton to the Glendale Evening News.

Yours very truly for Glendale,
HARRY M. MILLER.

INSTALLATION
OF OFFICERS
BY SHRINE

Mrs. Sarah Frances Leland
Worthy High Priestess;
Gift Presented

That the coming year may vividly reflect the happiness and progress Omar Shrine, No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem, has enjoyed under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Roberts, was the hope expressed by members Saturday night at impressive installation ceremonies held in Masonic temple on South Brand boulevard.

Installation of Omar Shrine is always a brilliant affair, and Saturday night the lodge room at the temple was transformed by attractive decoration into a flower garden.

Officers presiding over the installation were Fern Archer Roberts, worthy high priestess; Warren Roberts, worthy watchman of shepherds; Orma Vesper Naudain, worthy chaplain; Clytelle S. Hewitt, worthy scribe; Mae Warrick, worthy herald; Evelyn G. Pierce, organist; Emma Bell Kuttler, escorting herald; Maude H. Mills, flag bearer; Gertrude McMillan, worthy guardian.

Address of Welcome
Festivities opened with an address of welcome by Mr. Roberts. There followed the entrance of installing officers, officers-elect, present and past supreme officers, and present and past worthy high priestesses and watchmen of shepherds. Mrs. Roberts, who is one of the supreme queen's attendants, and Mrs. Kuttler, who is deputy supreme watchman of shepherds, presided most gracefully over the escort work.

The bouquets carried by installing officers and officers-elect were most beautiful. Mrs. Roberts and others carried bouquets of white sweetpeas and yellow jonquils, while women officers-elect carried baskets of bright pink sweetpeas. Officers-elect entered in couples and took seats in the form of a cross.

When the colors were escorted into the room the company sang "The Star Spangled Banner." During the installation ceremony the following program was given: Vocal solo, Miss Alice Gardner; whistling solo, Mrs. R. O. Bourne; reading, Mrs. Evelyn Pierce; whistling solo, Mrs. Fern Carlock; two dances, Eleanor Marek, pupil of Pearl Keller; duet, Katherine Delgado and Mrs. Pauline Jesse; violin and piano, Frederick Clint and Miss Parker.

Officers Installed
Officers installed are: Sarah Frances Leland, worthy high priestess; Raymond R. Luring, watchman of shepherds; Libbie R. Cutting, noble priestess; Bernice C. Fish, worthy scribe; Emma Leora Foor, worthy treasurer; Alvina Jurgensen, worthy chaplain; Maude A. Evans, worthy shepherdess; Maude A. Smith, worthy guard; Grace R. Browne, worthy herald; Edward E. Emerick, first wise man; John M. Grumling, second wise man; Edward H. Miller, third wise man; Alvah H. Leland, king; Ina M. Luring, queen; Florence Rice, first hand maiden; Grace L. Moore, second hand maiden; Irma H. Kaiser, third hand maiden; Katherine Delgado, organist; Pauline Jesse, soloist; Kate Cronkite, worthy guardian; S. Riley Lyons, worthy guard; Lucille Sisney, flag bearer; John Jurgensen, William E. Moore, Sidney B. Bellinger, Ralph W. Browne, king's guards; Mayme L. Jellison, Helen Fuller, Mayme H. Brooks, Grace R. Miller, queen's attendants; Eleanor Denman, Viola Bennett, Olive Moffatt, Gertrude Thedaker, flower girls; Luella G. Gregg, color bearer.

Gifts Presented
At the close of the ceremonies and final number of the program, presentations were made. Mr. Roberts presented Mrs. Naudain, first worthy high priestess of the Shrine, and a college friend of Mrs. Roberts at Drake university, who presented Mrs. Roberts with her past worthy high priestess jewel. She also presented Mrs. Roberts with a reading lamp, a gift from her staff of officers.

At this time Mrs. Roberts, in her charming manner gave her final message to the Shrine in a most eloquent words. She then presented Mrs. Kuttler, deputy supreme watchman of shepherds and an honorary member of Omar Shrine, who presented Mrs. Roberts with his past watchman of shepherds jewel. She also presented Mr. and Mrs. Roberts with a book of quotations. Mrs. Roberts received countless other gifts.

Mrs. Leland, worthy high priestess-elect, received among many gifts one from Palestine chapter, O. E. S., Los Angeles, of which she is a member. As final events Mrs. Leland and Mr. Luring spoke of hopes for the coming year.

C. E. Kimlin Seeking
Reelection Tomorrow

Having served for city councilman for one term, C. E. Kimlin is seeking reelection at the polls tomorrow and asks the support of the voters of Glendale on the strength of his ability as a city official shown during his tenure of office. He is a member of the Glendale Exchange club and prominent in civic and church work. Mr. Kimlin is a strong advocate of the "try Glendale first" idea and urges all residents of Glendale to patronize local merchants. He stands for well-organized, business-like, economical administration; normal development, neither ahead nor behind the growth of Glendale, and sound financial policy.

MRS. C. H. TOLL
TO PRESIDE
AT MEET

Local Woman Ends Regime
As District President
At Santa Barbara

Recalling convention activities a year ago in Glendale, the twenty-fourth annual convention of Los Angeles District, California Federation of Women's clubs opens at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Lobero theatre, Santa Barbara, to continue until Thursday night.

Glendale has a much more intimate interest in the northern gathering than other clubs represented, not only because of the delegations going north from local clubs, but because the gathering marks the close of the regime of Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Glendale, whose administration has been cited by state and national club leaders as the greatest period of development in district history.

Mrs. Toll is the second district president furnished by Glendale. Mrs. Mattison Jones was president in 1917. Mrs. Jones is not going to be able to attend the Santa Barbara conclave, but will attend the state convention May 19 to 21 at Santa Cruz and will serve on the resolutions committee.

Convention Theme
"Strength United Is Stronger" is the keynote sounded by Mrs. Toll for the convention, with emphasis placed on the theme, "Education for Peace and Protection of the Home." This theme will be further stressed by such addresses as "The Three-fold Challenge of Education" by Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier College; "An International Conscience, How Created, How Enthrone" by Dr. Charles F. Aked, preaching colleague of the Wilshire Congregational church of Los Angeles. In addition to the regular convention sessions there will be departmental conferences, luncheons, dinners and entertainment features planned by the hostess organization, the Santa Barbara Woman's club. Mrs. Toll will preside over all sessions.

At the art and literature luncheon Thursday at the Carrillo hotel Mrs. Daniel Campbell of Glendale will speak on "Hymns as Literature."

Redwood Memorial
Glendale is also interested in the Wednesday morning session when there will be a Memorial Redwood Grove roll call of club presidents. Mrs. R. W. Mosker of Glendale, district chairman of the Redwood Memorial Grove fund, will be present and report the fruits of her splendid efforts to augment the fund.

Glendale women serving on convention committees are: Mrs. Charles H. Toll, chairman of program; Mrs. Daniel Campbell, member of the resolutions committee; Mrs. Harry S. McCormack, chairman of printing.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, will head the following delegation. Mesdames Daniel Campbell, John Robert White, Jr., F. H. Wallace, Lillian Dow, H. E. Bartlett, C. G. Putnam, W. M. Brown, A. L. Ferguson, T. H. Hudson.

Gilhuly Is Member Of Tropico Presbyterian

S. S. Gilhuly, candidate for reelection of city councilman at the polls tomorrow, is vice-president and director of the Glendale Realty board, and vice-president and director of the Glendale Optimist club. He and members of his family are affiliated with the Tropico Presbyterian church, and live at 342 El Bonita street. He is a member of the firm of Gilhuly & Russell, realtors, 600 South Brand boulevard.

Mr. Gilhuly is seeking reelection on the basis of his past performance as city councilman during the time he has served. He has taken an active interest in all matters for the civic betterment of Glendale and firmly favors a clean government, low taxes consistent with sound business judgment, and economic management of the city.

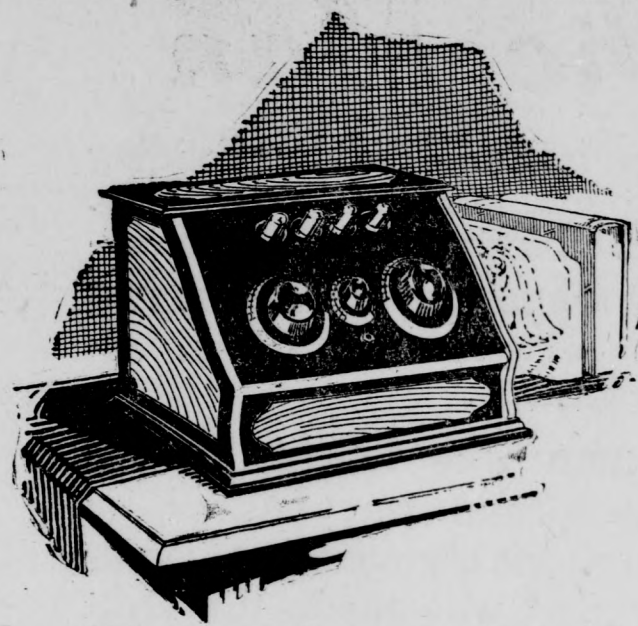

Glendale To Have New
Two-Story Apartments

R. W. Fliske of Los Angeles will construct a two-story modern apartment house at the corner of Dryden and Louise streets. The building will contain sixteen apartments, fourteen of which will consist of large living room, breakfast room, kitchen and bath, and two apartments of large living room, bedroom, breakfast room, kitchen and bath. The building will be started May 1, and is expected to be completed by August 1.

Silver dollars equalling in value the total war debts of the nations would make a belt 52 feet wide around the earth at the equator, according to President Tully C. Knoles of the College of the Pacific.

M. B. Towman, Bride Return to Glendale

M. B. Towman, manager of the Glendale branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California, and secretary of the Glendale Motor Car Dealers' association, returned to work today after a mysterious absence of more than a week. And with him was Mrs. Towman, who, until the disappearance of both of them from the auto club office, was an employee there, Miss Olive Pascal.

As a welcome to Towman and in a measure a punishment for his failure to let his friends in on the secret, he was given a ride through the streets of the city today astride an ancient equine meaning, in the language of Webster, a decrepit nag.

Friends of Towman spread the rumor last week of his marriage. Towman himself admitted it today. Mr. and Mrs. Towman have been honeymooning in San Francisco "and other points north."

Boy Arrested In Santa Ana on Theft Charge

Lester Hobson, 17, of 113 South Central avenue, was returned from Santa Ana this afternoon by Glendale police after his arrest there yesterday on a charge of theft of an automobile owned by V. W. McCray, 3015 Rosslyn avenue, Los Angeles. Hobson is said to have confessed to Santa Ana authorities that he took the machine from Central avenue and Broadway, Glendale late Saturday night.

Two other boys, Curtis Coombs, 17, and his brother Frank, 14, of 3355 Division street, Los Angeles, arrested with Hobson, were released after their mother told Glendale police that Hobson had called for them at 11 o'clock Saturday night and asked them to take a "joy-ride" with them.

INDEX TO CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT

PAGE 6 OF THIS ISSUE OF THE EVENING NEWS

Of course when you want to buy merchandise of any kind you are anxious to patronize a Glendale dealer. When you wish to employ professional skill it is your desire to secure a local man. When repair work is needed it is to your advantage to have the work done by mechanics near home.

The object of this index column is to refer you to the CO-OPERATIVE DEPARTMENT on page 6 of this issue, where you will find listed a large number of merchants, tradesmen and professional men who are real boosters for Glendale. While the Community Loyalty Section will appear in The Evening News one day every week, yet readers are advised to cut it out and hold it for reference for the purpose of ascertaining names and locations of business firms in Glendale.

ASKS GLENDALE ANNEX BURBANK

President of Realty Board
Advocates Joining Two Cities At Dinner

KleinSmid, say things in Los Angeles, but there can be nothing come from Burbank in this matter. Undue publicity at this time can do us no good," Mr. Marks said in refusing to comment on Mr. Wood's assertions.

Seek Institution

It is known that through Mr. Marks, Burbank interests are endeavoring to bring a large institution of learning to that city since the fight for the University of California, southern branch, failed. This institution might not at first be the University of Southern California, but departments closely allied to it and under the supervision of Dr. Von KleinSmid was the belief expressed today. Dr. Von KleinSmid is known to be the moving spirit behind a plan to establish a University of International Relations, to be international in its scope and to deal chiefly with political sciences in an international way.

Mr. Wood referred to the possible annexation of Burbank a second time when he called attention to the close proximity of one city to the other.

No Barrier Now

"Motoring along San Fernando road, there is no way of telling when you are out of Glendale and into Burbank, save for an electric sign overhead. The two cities have grown together so that the valley is now an unbroken line of buildings to beyond the Burbank boundaries. Glendale has shown her willingness to work for Burbank, Burbank, I believe, is ready to reciprocate," Mr. Wood said. The realtors' fourth annual banquet, held at the Tuesday afternoon clubhouse, was a huge success. A long row of officers of the California Real Estate association, parent real estate body in California, sat at the head table. In the center was seated Charles B. Guthrie, Glendale man, now endorsed for state real estate commissioner to replace Edwin T. Keiser, resigned. Many times during the program state officers referred to the endorsement of Mr. Guthrie, praising his ability and the prominent part he has played in the advancement of real estate's cause.

Endorse Guthrie

"The eyes of the state are focused on Glendale and upon Charles Guthrie," said Harrison Lewis, chairman of the state educational committee, said. "Unless we are sadly mistaken we are going to make Mr. Guthrie real estate commissioner of California."

William L. Twining, president of the Glendale Realty board, presided during the dinner, turning the gavel over to Mr. Guthrie at the outset of the speaking program. Mr. Guthrie called upon Clifton J. Platt, Pasadena, chairman of the "Own Your Home" committee; A. A. Pointer, chairman of the presidents' division of the state board; Robert A. Swink, state vice-president; Larry H. Wood, president of the Burbank Realty board; Harrison Lewis, state chairman of the educational committee; Marsh Hartranft of Tujunga; Freeman H. Bloodgood, state vice-president and chairman of the legislative committee, and Robert J. Adams, Los Angeles realtor, who spoke on "Cities of the West," comparing them with cities of the east and finally picturing Los Angeles on a pinnacle above all the rest, the mistress of metropol of the world.

Under the supervision of A. H. Voelker, Arthur Raymond Hair, Walter Kepple and Miss Nell Mitchell staged musical review numbers. Nine prizes, donated by realtors, were given away to lucky number holders. Drawing of the numbers was under the direction of James M. Rhoades, general chairman of the annual dinner committee, and E. P. Hayward, who with Mr. Voelker and Mr.

MAY CLOSE CROSSING AT ATWATER AVENUE

Action of State Railroad Commission
In Denying Gardena Reopening Is Causing Wild Speculation

With action of the State Railroad commission Saturday, denying the reopening of Gardena crossing at Glendale boulevard, rumors that the grade crossing at Atwater avenue is shortly to be closed were spread throughout the Atwater district.

Officers of the Atwater Improvement association were quick to deny any knowledge of attempts to have Atwater avenue closed, and expressed the opinion that the rumors were unfounded. However, an investigation was ordered by President Arthur M. Gilman, who said that first-hand knowledge from the Pacific Electric railway and the State Railroad commission will be sought immediately.

Any effort to close the Atwater crossing would be fought in the last ditch, Mr. Gilman said. It is true, he set forth, that a pedestrian tunnel under the tracks at this point is being sought, but the necessity of a grade crossing to care for the tremendous volume of automobile traffic is in no wise diminished by the tunnel.

Association Meets Tonight

The Atwater Improvement association will meet tonight in the auditorium of the grammar school at Atwater avenue. Important matters of improvement in the district, discussion of the sewer work now under way, plans for the proposed $82,000 addition to the grammar school and other items will be taken up. The principal talk will be given by a representative of the Cryer-for-Mayor headquarters, invited to the meeting by officers of the association.

Traffic Enforcement

Strict enforcement of traffic regulations along Glendale boulevard, particularly in the vicinity of the bridge and Glenhurst avenue, will be undertaken by Los Angeles police. A growing tendency of motorists to continue on the left-hand side of the boulevard after crossing the bridge into Atwater park instead of turning to the right side of the car tracks at Glenhurst avenue has brought forth a warning from the police department. All cars will be required to cross over at the first crossing. Officer Joe Hersh, in charge of patrol work, said. Large directing arrows have been painted on the street to warn motorists not to ignore the crossover.

Seepage Hinders Work

Seepage water has again flooded the Glendale outfall sewer ditch in the Walnut Park section. Cement foundation work has been completely submerged by the water. Workmen are on the job with electric pumps twenty-four hours a day in order to keep the water down and permit continuation of the sewer job uninterrupted.

To Build Summer Home

A five-acre tract of bottom land in the Los Angeles river bed just south of Los Feliz boulevard will be improved and beautified and the new summer home of J. C. McQuiston built upon it, it was announced by C. S. Decker today. The plot, a natural park, covered with trees and with a large spring and trickling stream running through it, will be turned into one of the show places of the section, Mr. Decker said. Work of clearing the land for the new residence will commence immediately. Once the new home is completed, Mr. McQuiston will beautify the surrounding grounds with lawns and shrubs. The stream will be stocked with fish and planted with water lilies. Mr. McQuiston already has frontage on Glenfeliz boulevard, giving an entrance to his river property. He is now negotiating for an additional 95 feet fronting on that street and will erect two more houses.

Rhoades, comprised this committee. The prizes were given by Calvin & Woods, Glendale News Commercial Printing Co., Hayward & McCartney, W. P. Hope, Ingledue Realty Co., C. H. Kirkman, Frank Meline Co., Rhoades & Sloan and Twining & Myers.

Friends Of E. J. Flynn Support His Candidacy

Friends of Eugene J. Flynn requested The Glendale Evening News to publish the following:

Eugene J. Flynn, candidate for city clerk, has been a resident of Glendale for the past six years and resides at 1125 East Windsor road. He is married and has three children—one son having graduated from the Glendale High school, another son a student in high school at present and a daughter in the Acadia school.

Mr. Flynn is fully qualified to perform the duties pertaining to the office of city clerk by reason of an active business experience of more than twenty years in various lines, during which time he was connected with some of the leading metropolitan newspapers in the east and middle west in responsible positions. He was at one time secretary of a large mining company. Previous to coming to California he owned and operated a large commercial establishment in Pittsburgh, Pa., seven years, and handled the proceedings of the City Council of

Wilbur F. Tower Believes In Clean Government And
Economy, He Says

Wilbur F. Tower, candidate for City Council, sent the following self-explanatory communication to The Evening News:

I wish to commend most sincerely and heartily your editorial on the "Responsibility of Voters" in Saturday's paper. It contains the right ring. If tomorrow's election is decided along those lines Glendale will take an advanced step no matter who is elected.

Regarding the making of states, I wish to make my position clear in a few words. I have solicited no such endorsements and have been consulted but little along these lines. In not a single instance have I made any promises as to appointments and do not purpose to do so. Any official or employee who is qualified for the position he or she holds and is performing it in a satisfactory manner, will have my warm support.

Makes No Promises

In only one instance have I been solicited along these lines and promptly declined to make any promises. I have also been asked in a typewritten communication if I have ever sold booze in Glendale. My answer is no, here or elsewhere.

I am earnestly interested in a thorough-going enforcement of the eighth amendment and especially urge that all intoxicated drivers of automobiles have their licenses revoked and that they be engaged to help build good roads for all other motorists to enjoy.

A progressive, clean city government, economically managed is my aim in brief, if elected.

Adventist Preacher In Sermon On Easter

of his time because he overthrew their traditions, so it is today with those who follow his example.

Easter Not Christian

"It is not easy to stand out against the entire Christian world as I and my denomination do in this matter of Easter observance," he said. "It is much easier to go with the majority and preach from the popular standpoint. But I do not propose to cover up the truth that ought to be given to the people and put a garland of flowers and a halo of glory around this do so. You have only to go to any public library and consult an encyclopedia to learn that Easter is not of Christian origin."

"You will find that this celebration originated in the worship of a heathen goddess, to whom it was customary to make a sacrifice on a particular day. The 'Popular and Critical Bible Encyclopedia,' for example, states that 'there is no trace of the celebration of Easter in the Bible.' Then by their own admission the religious leaders know that they are giving the people something that has no scriptural foundation."

Reasons Why

"Easter is kept in commemoration of the resurrection of Christ. How can you bow down to the shrine of a god who will tell you that Christ rose from the dead on April 12, and also that he rose on March 21 (Easter of last year?) The Christian world keeps fifty-two Sundays in the year in commemoration of Christ's resurrection; then why Easter?"

"The prophet Ezekiel tells us of one of the greatest abominations which God pointed out to him in connection with the professed worship of God in his day. He says that he saw 'about five and twenty men, with their backs toward the temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the east; and they worshipped the sun toward the east.'"

"Toward what were the faces of the five and twenty thousand turned who on the neighboring hillsides this morning bowed down and worshipped just as the sun came peeping above the horizon?"

"It is all right to worship God at any time, certainly; but when people have to be roused from their slumbers in the night to be ready so that they can engage in worship at the first glimpses of the sun, and men try to connect this with Christianity, there is something wrong."

"The trouble is that people have forsaken the Sabbath of the Lord, the memorial of creation, and put the Sabbath of tradition in its place. The world does not want the truth today. They love tradition better."

Rev. McComas will speak next Sunday evening on the subject of "The Return of the Jews."

Realty Board To Pose For Picture At Lunch

Members of the Glendale Realty board will pose for the camera at their meeting Wednesday noon at the Tuesday afternoon clubhouse. The photograph taken at the meeting will be used in the anniversary number of "California Real Estate," official state realty publication, and will also appear in the convention edition of the National Real Estate Journal and will be widely distributed at the national convention of realtors, at Detroit, June 23 to 27.

JAMES RHOADES ANSWERS QUERIES

Candidate States Stand On Civil Services, Parks,
Qualifications

Editor The Evening News—I have repeatedly been asked many questions during this present campaign as to what organizations I belong to; also what my attitude will be if elected on the following question: How I will stand in civil service for our fire and police departments? What my attitude will be on public parks, taxation and many others?

In reply will say I think the public is entitled to know this. I am a member of the Elks, Masons, Odd Fellows, Rotary club, Merchants' association and Chamber of Commerce. These are all the organizations of which I am a member or ever have been.

I am very strongly in favor of the enforcement in every detail of the Volstead act as well as all other laws on the statute books. I am in favor of civil service for our fire and police departments. We have an enviable fire and police department and every effort should be given to encourage and keep them up to standard. I am in favor of as low tax rate as is consistent with good business and judgment will permit. I am in favor of carrying out the will of the majority in all public improvements. In cases of street widening and paving I will in all cases obey the will of the majority asking such improvements. I will do my utmost to represent north, east, south and west—all of our city impartially, and devote my every thought and energy in the performance of my duty.

Record Before People

I have placed the record of my whole life before the people of Glendale in letters that should convince the most skeptical of my qualifications to perform the duties of councilman. They are the jury and my case is now in their hands.

I have asked the voters for the position of one of the five councilmen of this city. In this position I will be called upon to oversee the collections and disbursing of their funds. Should I apply to any firm or corporation to perform a similar duty I would be asked for references and letters of recommendation and I feel the same rule should apply in seeking the position of councilman, which I have done.

I know in a measure Glendale's

Treaties Now In Making To Shut Off Country From Foreign Supply

WASHINGTON, April 13.—In its effort to draw the prohibition nets tighter around the country, the state department expects soon to announce the negotiations of several new rum treaties which authorities believe will go far toward checking the flood of liquor that is still pouring into the United States.

Ten liquor treaties already have been negotiated with foreign governments, including the principal maritime nations of the world, and Secretary of State Kellogg expects shortly to sign a covenant with Mexico that will plug up a few of the holes along the southern border.

Canadian Treaty

A treaty with Canada, designed to frustrate the bootlegging traffic along the northern boundary, already has been passed and awaits only royal approval in London.

Cuba, which supplies thousands of cases of liquor to the rum runners, is next on the list and when that is completed the United States, theoretically at least, will be completely changed by dry safe guards.

At the same time the coast guard is making final plans for the most highly concentrated drive against foreign rum runners ever undertaken. Three hundred speed boats, twenty naval destroyers and 1000 men comprise the dry navy.

TOBACCO GROWERS

LANCASTER, Pa., April 13.—Tobacco growers are now being canvassed preparatory to an attempt to organize a co-operative marketing association to dispose of the tobacco crop of this district. It is expected the association will be functioning early in May.

needs, my two and one-half years as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has given me that vision. My two years' service as mayor of Missoula, Mont., has given me some knowledge of municipal affairs. The letters of recommendation I have published and placed in the hands of the voters, telling of my integrity and fitness for this position, I trust, merit the favorable consideration of our people at the polls tomorrow.
